GEORGE HUDSON BILES

MARY HUSTON BILES

I would, with your indulgence, dedicate this book to my father, G. H. Biles (George Hudson Thomas Biles) and to my understanding and patient wife, Mary.

My father, although he would not have attempted this piece of work, would have enjoyed it. He loved family and home. He provided each of his children an inspiration in his devotion to truth, honesty, loyalty and hard work.

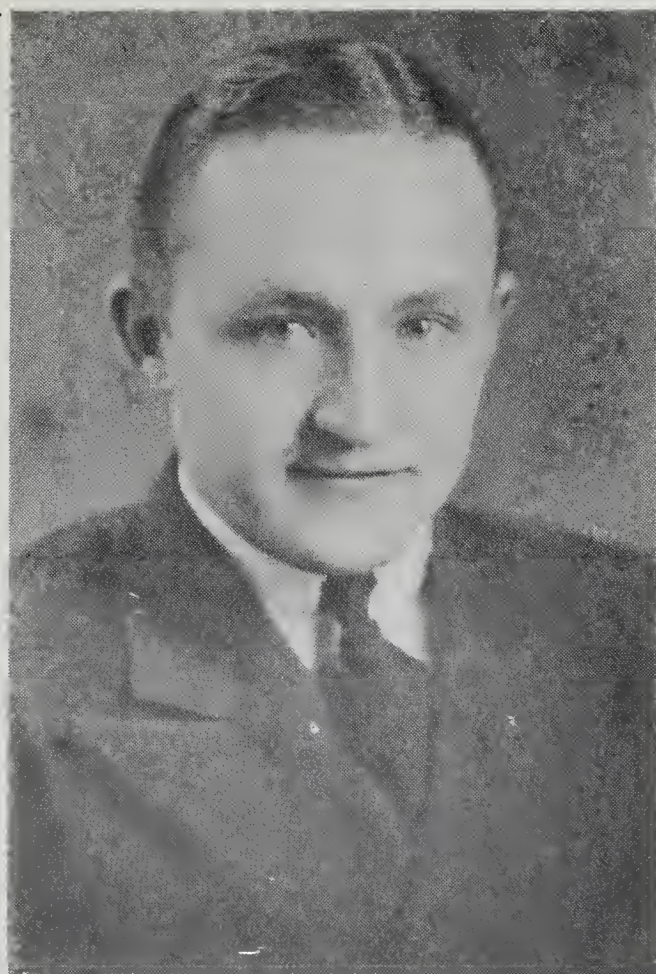

Mary has been a devoted wife. She has been patient above and beyond the call of duty. She has my gratitude and my love.

Bryan W. Biles

I am indebted to so many it is hard to know where to start or stop. Many have contributed time, energy, patience and money so that this publication would be possible. True, many have been completely disinterested. However, as I look back, I cannot but be grateful to those of you who have so graciously helped.

I have been tempted many times to throw in the towel but I could not let those of you down who have been so interested that this should come to print.

I would indeed be ungrateful if I did not first acknowledge the idea of a publication was not original with me. There have been many before me who have collected large quantities of material only to have it cast out upon their death or abandoned without hope of the material being shared. Among those were- Lois Biles of Georgia, Louise Biles Hill of Tenn., Andrew Jackson Biles of Tulsa Okla., John A. Biles of Pa., and A. V. Phillips.

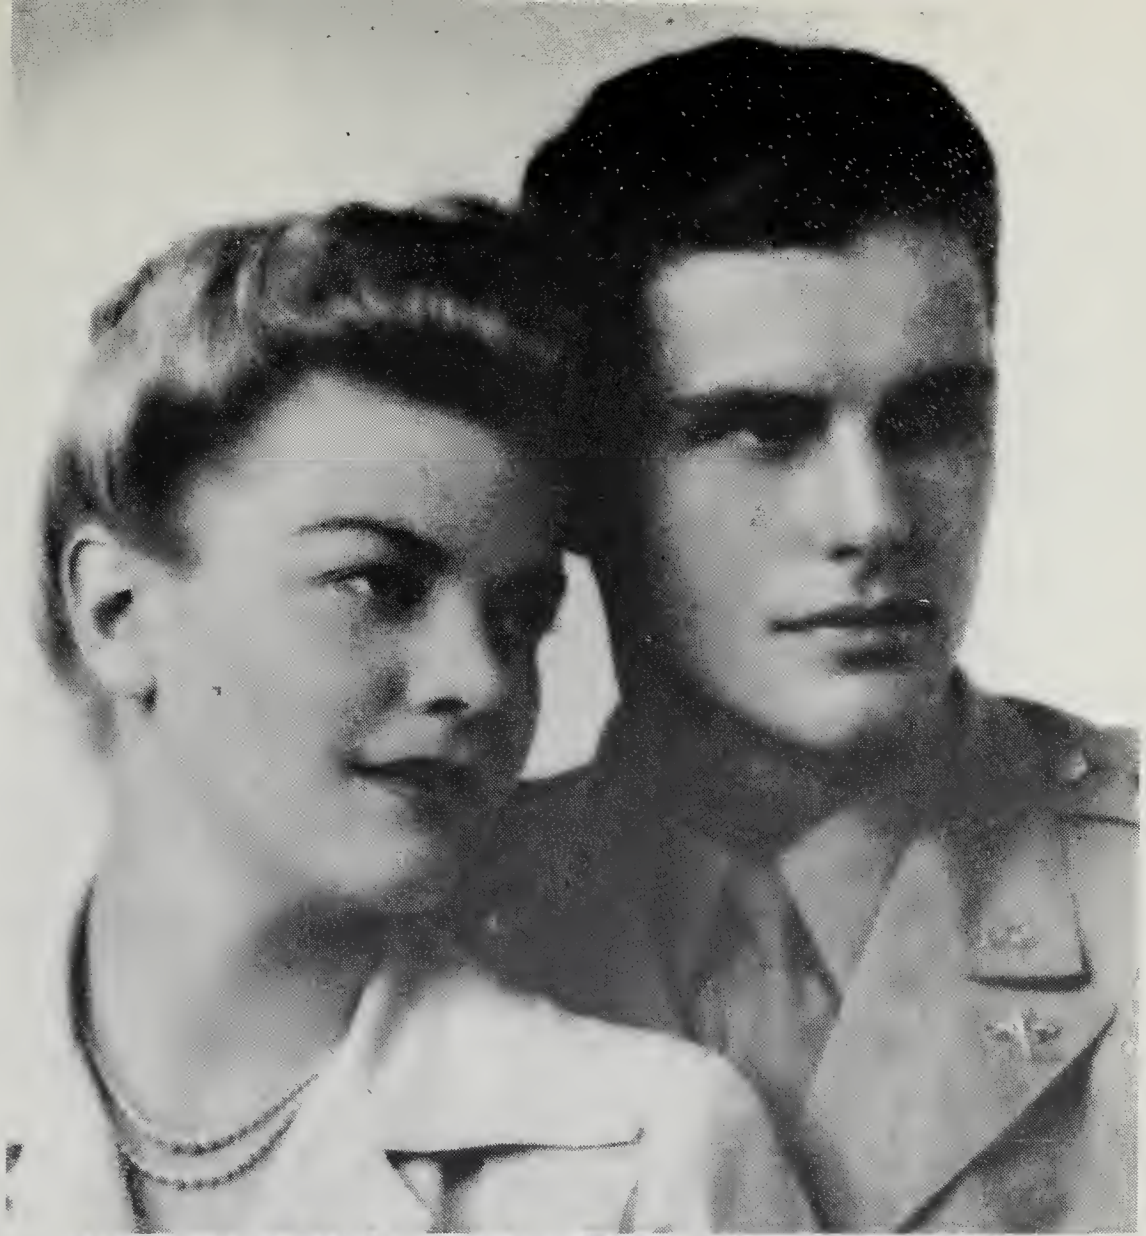

BRYAN W BILES

MRS. URBAN SMITH

MRS. W.D. JORDAN

MR. & MRS. MARTIN B. BILES

MR. & MRS. JAMES N. BILES

I owe much to Mrs. W.D. "Pansy Biles" Jordon who has spent thirty-five years collecting material. She has been most generous with her material and her help. Indeed, it was Mrs. Jordan who inspired and infected me with this project. Without the help and encouragement of Pansy this would not be available to you today. Mrs. Urban Smith of Pulaski, Tennessee has been most generous with her time and effort. James N. Biles of Nashville, Tennessee has shown unusual insight. He has been responsible for many major ties and discoveries. He attacks a problem with complete confidence and the solution is soon in sight. Lee Kennedy Biles has been most helpful in providing help with the line of her husband. Marion Biles has been helpful as has Roberta Francis Biles. Sim Joe Smith has provided help in the areas where he could.

Many, many others, too numerous to mention, have been of great assistance in collecting the information found in this book. I am most grateful to you for your help and consideration.

I hope someday to have the opportunity to make a genealogist of my worst enemy. It was never intended that I should spend the thousands of hours compiling the information for this book. I love the outdoors and active life. Yet, I have literally spent thousands of hours at my desk writing letters to unknown relatives, friends, and perhaps enemies. I am sure from my persistence I have made a few of the latter.

There will be those who will criticize the manner in which this book is written. I would say to them - there is plenty yet to be done and you are appointed to do it.

I have tramped through grave yards, climbed through stacks in dirty courthouse basements, searched libraries, traveled thousands of miles (over 5000 miles in August 1967), spent thousands of needed dollars, and made a nuisance of myself

by writing tons of letters and not once, have 11

I received a thank you note from the Postmaster General for helping to offset the postal deficit. I am most grateful for those of you who answered my letters. Without you this would not have been possible.

I have not taken the time to document as much of the material as I should for two reasons. First, to properly document the material would delay this publication about a year. I am ready to be free of it for awhile. Second, it would tremendously increase the size of the book and make it so expensive that you would not buy it. Most of the documentation required would be found in my loosely kept files.

There will be some errors in this book. Some will be only of a minor nature. I am sure somewhere there will be a major error. I have tried to use extreme care to prevent such an error. You are invited to correspond and send corrections or additions. Perhaps, someday, I may put out an expanded and documented edition.

The value of this book will be greatly enhanced by you if you will make carefully written notes in the margins and elsewhere. Please send me information that should have been included. It would be helpful if you would cite page numbers when writing.

I have a small collection of books, Bibles, newspaper articles and other material pertaining to the history of the Biles family. If you care to add to the collection your material will be well received.

To those of you who purchase this book, my gratitude. You have made my time well spent. Your money will only replace a small portion of the expense involved. It was never meant to make any money. It was something I had to do. The fact that you, too, are interested in the Biles family makes my heart glad and relieves the many tensions built up compiling it.

System of numbering

Each number represents a generation. Although not always correct, the number also represents the chronological number of the child of the preceding number. For example in a five generation number such as 15873 - the last number 3 represents the 3rd child of number 7, the 7 represents the 7th child of number 8, the 8 represents the 8th child of number 5, and the 5 represents the 5th child of number 1. An x following a number indicates a child by a second marriage.

Dates: O. S. - old style N. S. - new style

Dates prior to 1752, when England adopted the present calendar with the year beginning in January are apt to vary according to the recorder. The English began the year, prior to 1752, with March 25. At this time 11 days were dropped from the calendar and the 1st month changed to January.

Bile. A Pictish name. Brude som of Bile, King of Fortriu, defeated Ecfrith, King of Northumbria, at Dunnichen, 685 (ES, 1, p. 193), and Beli mac Elphine, King of Dumbarton (Alochlaui the) died in 722 (CPS., p. 74). The name occurs in Irish mythology as that of the father of Mile or Milidh of Spain. Biles is also common in Breton alone or in composition (Loth, p. 110). Taken from "The Surnames of Scotland, Their Origin, Meaning and History", by George F. Black, Ph. D.

The oldest record which can be authenticated places the Biles in England. The records found in Blandford, Dorchester, Woodland, Holwell, Weymouth, and shilling Okeford would seem to indicate that the Biles may not have been in the area much earlier than the 1500's.

There are many in the family who have handed down from generation to generation that the Biles are of Scotch decent. Others claimed they were of Irish decent. One tale is told that the Biles were Norsemen and came into England with the Invasion of the Norsemen. It is well known that the name or very similiar spellings are among most of the nationalities of Europe.

My grandfather handed down the story that the Biles are of Irish decent. Being found in Ireland by the early Catholic priests who came into the area carrying Christianity to the wild Irish tribes. They gave this clan of wild Irishmen the name of Byes because of the large number of multiple births found among them. The name then gradually changed over the centuries to Biles, Many twins and triplets are found in the family today.

The most common spelling of the name is Biles and Byles. There is much evidence to support the fact that all families of the two spellings are related. The old records of both England and America will confirm this contention. As a matter of record many of the family have divided on the spelling of their name and brothers have chosen to spell their names differently.

However, the name has been spelled Biels, Bill, Bills, Billes, Boyls, Boyles, Beals, Bile, Byle, Bale, Bales, Byl, Byll, Byles, Biles, Bylls, Beyl, Beyle, Beele, Beile, Beill, Beale, Biell, Biele, and DeByll along with many other spellings.

These spellings have been found in research in courthouses and elsewhere and were used in spelling the names of those of the Biles-Byles family.

In Rowan County, North Carolina, I have been unable to find descendants of three of the sons of Thomas Biles. But in the adjoining county, I find Briles which is known to have lived in the Jersey settlement where Thomas established himself when he moved from New Jersey.

This line of thinking could be expanded into untold pages by the author but it would serve small purpose. If this is desired to be further pursued, I might suggest checking information by Miles White, found in the Pennsylvania Magazine, Vol. 26.

I have located a reference to the family as early as 685 and again in the "Domesday Book".

Roger Byle and Walter Byle were members of Parliament in the time of Edward the 3rd. The Register of the Parish of St. John the Baptist of Devises, Wilts, shows that on Nov. 12, 1593, that Josias Byles married Ann Lye, and Alumni Oxoniensis, 1500-1714 contains two names of Byles: William Byles, serviens, of Cornwall, Exeter College, matriculated 26 Oct. 1660 - B.A. 1664 M.A. 1667.

John Byles, son of Daniel Byles of Dorchester, Dorset, Cornwall Exeter College, Nov. 20, 1685 age 16 - B.A. 1689. (probably 1st cousin of William).

Biles Island

Biles Island, a part of Falls Township, is formed by Biles Creek and the Delaware River, and contains about 300 acres of land. Its first known name Menahanonck, appears on the Lindestrom map. This is a Lenape Indian name, freely translated meaning "the island formed by a creek". Later it was known as Orecton Island and is so named in the William Penn deed of July 15, 1682. Orecton, it is claimed, is a corruption of the name of the Indian chief, Okhuckwean, but positive proof is lacking. This name was dropped after 1680, the year in which William Biles, a trader and one of the first English settlers of Falls, bought the Island from the Indians, and thereafter it was known as Biles Island. The deed for this purchase was lost or not put on record. In 1727 Chief Orecton, Chief Lapowinso and other chiefs confirmed the purchase in a deed to William Biles, Jr. The authority for this statement is the late Colonel Henry D. Paxson, in whose collection of manuscripts relating to Bucks County was a copy

(if not the original) of this deed. The Plantations of William and Henry Biles were laid out on the mainland near Biles Island. Before Penn came to Pennsylvania, they obtained their grants from Sir Edmund Andros, Governor of New York. The first Friends' Meeting in Bucks County was held at William Biles' house. Moor Island, just below Morrisville, and a part of Falls Twp., like Biles Island, is a cut off from the mainland by Biles Creek.

Taken from "Place Names in Bucks County", compiled by George Mac Reynolds.

The above raises some questions. Was William's brother Charles also named Henry or was this an error on the part of Mr. Reynolds? If Charles' other name was Henry this would substantiate John A. Biles belief that the decendents of Henry Biles b. 1748 was of the Charles Biles line.

Considerable land was taken up within the bounds of Pennsylvania by English settlers while Governor Edmund Andros ruled New York as the Duke's representative. According to Proud, "The first most considerable settlement in Pennsylvania proper is said to have been near the lower falls of the river Delaware, in Bucks county....some of the inhabitants having settled there by virtue of patents from Sir Edmund Andros, Governor of New York. The "Falls of the Delaware" became the centre of a little English colony several years before Penn's arrival. Among these early settlers were William Yardly, James Harrison, Phineas Pimberton, William Biles, William Dark, Lyonel Britain, Villiam Beaks, and other, "and soon afterwards there, and near Neshaminy Creek, Richard Hough, Henry Baker, Nicholas Walne, John Otter, Robert Hall; and in Wright's town, John Chapman, and James Ratcliffe." Proud, "History of Pennsylvania," I, p. 217.

The Biles House in Woodside has been saved by a change in plans for Alternate U. S. Route 1 in Bucks County, Farmhouse was occupied by physician who treated Washington's troops during the march on Trenton.

REROUTING OF HIGHWAY IN LOWER MAKEFIELD SAVES HISTORIC TOWN

Historic Woodside in Lower Makefield township has been saved from destruction by the re-routing of Alternate U. S. Route 1, officials announced Wednesday.

Peter F. Campbell, chairman of the township board of supervisors, said the State Highway Department has informed him that the projected express highway will swing around the community in a slight change of direction which will not affect the basic plan.

The plan is to link the highway - which has dead-ended in Langhorne for 30 years - with Scudder's Falls Bridge on the Delaware River - the bridge that now goes nowhere.

Oblivion Threatened

Original plans of the highway's department plotted the new road through Woodside. Construction would virtually have obliterated the town through which Washington's colonial army marched on its way to Trenton in 1776.

Announcement of the plan aroused strong protests from residents and historians at a public hearing conducted in 1962 by the Highways Department and the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads. The latter is the principal participant in the project.

Campbell said, "We're glad the Highways Department heeded the protest of residents and that Woodside will not be wiped out."

James Flowers, chairman of the committee to rescue Old Woodside, expressed great delight at the change in plans.

A town resident, and a social studies teacher at the William Penn Junior High School, he praised the Highway Department for "saving a bit of our Nation's History."

"Detachments of the colonial army marched back and forth past some houses still standing in town. They were escorting Hessian prisoners and going to Newton to celebrate the victory in the Battle of Trenton in December of 1776.

Route 1 - known as Roosevelt blvd. in Phila. divides at a fork in Janney shortly after leaving Philadelphia.

Much of the article is left out since it would serve no purpose here.

Woodside --

Village near the central northwestern part of Lower Makefield Township on the Edgewood Road, Bucks County, Pa. It was first known as Biles Corner, so named for Dr. William Biles, an early large landholder, owning more than 1000 acres. He practiced as a medical doctor there. Dr. Wm. Biles was the great grandfather of Andrew T. Biles, of Newton, Pa. The village was next called Summerville, then Edgewood, now Woodside. Samuel Tomlinson was appointed postmaster of Edgewood 2-16-1858. The change to Woodside was made about 25 years ago.

The desk is of solid Cherry Wood and was brought to America by William Biles in 1679. Its present owner is noted in the text of this book.

Alexander Biles of All Saints Parish, Dorchester, Dorsetshire, England married Ann Speare daughter of John Speare of Ber Regis, held land under John Tuberville Esq., 1590, died ante 1620 and his wife Elizabeth Speare whose will was dated 1627 and buried at Fordington Aug. 23, 1631. John Speare was the son of Thomas Speare of Ber Regis.

Alexander Biles was summoned for criticizing Parson Benn for which he enter Napier's Almshouse 1651. If you are a student of history you will realize that at this time one's fortune depended entirely on the favor or disfavor of the king currently on the throne of England. Several generations later the Janney family expected to inherit a large fortune when the usurped fortune of the Biles family was released.

Alexander Biles, son of the above Alexander and Anne (Speare) Biles was buried at All Saints Parish, Dorchester, Dorsetshire, England June 30, 1682. His estate was administered by his son John in 1692/3. He married before 1655 Dorothy Strong. Dorothy Strong was the daughter of Reverend William Strong who was the third son of John and Joane Strong (will 1584). John Strong was the son of William Strong. Dorothy Strong's father, Rev. William Strong was Rector of More Critchel, County Dorset. He was the famous preacher of Westminster Abbey, who was buried there 7-4-1654.

Alexander and Dorothy (Strong) Biles had at least five sons and two daughters - Thomas, John, William, Jonathan, Charles, Rebecca and Mary. William, Charles and Jonathan came to America. William Biles - Immigrant Alexander's son William matriculated at Cornwall, Exeter College Oct. 26, 1660. He received his B.A. degree 1664, M.A. 1667. He was born 1644. He married May 6, 1669 Joanna Hellard b. 1646 d. 9-4-1687. They had 3 sons and 2 daughters before coming to America in 1679 and three daughters born in America.

Pemberton's List of Arrivals states, "William Biles, of Dorchester, in the county of Dorset, Vile Monger, and Johannah, his wife arrived in Delaware River, in the "Elizabeth and Sarah" of Weymouth, the 4th month, 4th day, 1679 (the fourth month being June). Besides his wife and five children he brought with him two servants, Edward Hancock to serve eight years and Elizabeth Petty to serve seven years. They came to America from All Saints Parish, Dorchester, Dorset County, England.

William the son of Alexander and Dorothy (Strong) Biles had brothers Jonathan, John, Thomas and Charles. John and Thomas remained in England, and Jonathan came to America in 1681 and settled at Beverly, Mass. William had two sisters Mary who died young and Rebecca who married William Scutt.

William must have joined the Society of Friends after his marriage. As it is not listed in the Dorchester Minutes, but his first five children are listed there. His correspondence with Friends in England began in 1680 and his daughter, Rebecca's birth is recorded at Burlington Monthly Meeting in 1680.

The first known meeting of Friends in Pa. was held at his house below the Falls of Neshaminy, May 2, 1683. This was the meeting place until the Meeting House was built at Fallsington in 1690. William was a Quaker Preacher and office holder before Penn's arrival and was a member of Creekhorne Court in 1680.

It appears that William and his brother Charles who came with him to America settled in Burlington, N. J. for somewhat under a year when they moved across the river to what was to become Bucks County, Pa. Jasper Dankers in 1679 made a copy of a map of the Delaware River from Burlington to Trenton which showed William with 309 acres of land on the west side of the Delaware River. In 1681, Holme's map of Bucks County, Pa. showed William with two pieces of land which fronted on the river and another which he and his brother Charles owned together which did not front on the river.

History of Bucks County, Pa. by Davis says that several English settlers took up land on the river bank on the west side of the Delaware just below the falls. Davis states that William was a man of talent and great influence and a leader. He first took up land in Pa. which he purchased from Sir Edmund Andros representing the Duke of York. These land grants were made in 1679. Biles Island in the Delaware River was purchased in 1680 from Indians named, Orecton, Nannacus, Menemblahoking and Patelana for the sum of ten pounds. William also held large tracts of land in N. J. but it was purchased after he moved to Bucks County, Pa. One of the purchases was listed from Thomas Green, Yeoman, Maidenhead, Burlington County, West N. J. to William Biles, Merchant, Bucks County, Pa. April 10, 1696. There were 300 acres in the sale for 55 pounds.

He was appointed Attorney to Joseph Wass of London and in Sept. 1707, it was reported that Wass sold all of his land in America to William Biles. There was 45,000 acres in Quohakin County. West Jersey and 10,000 acres in Salem County bordering on the Morris River and Delaware Bay.

William played a large part in political and legal as well as church affairs. An election was ordered for Feb. 20, 1682 for members of Council and Assembly at Philadelphia. March 10, 1682.

William Biles, Christopher Taylor and James Harrison were elected to the Council from Bucks County.

The first session of this first Council was held in Philadelphia Jan. 10, 1682/3 and was presided over by William Penn. William Biles was present and took an important part in framing the laws. He was also present Feb. 2, 1683 when Penn's Great Charter was read and was one of those who signed it. (T Frame of Pa. Gov't.)

An entry in the original records of Bucks County of 1684, showing earmarks or brands, proved that William, William Jr. and Charles were then owners of cattle.

On May 22, 1684, the Provincial Council appointed William as Inferior Receiver under Deputy Treasurer for Bucks County for which he received twenty pounds annual salary.

On Feb. 11, 1685 he and others were appointed to lay out a road in Bucks County. On Feb. 6, 1685 the Council commissioned James Harrison, Thomas Janney, William Biles, William Beaks, John Otter, Edmond Bennett and John Swift for constables in Bucks County. On Oct. 1, 1685 he was appointed Special Commissioner to determine all heinous and enormous crimes in Bucks County.

The first session of the Assembly, March 10, 1686, he was fined twelve pence for being absent the first day. He was a member of the Council and Assembly for so long a time that no complete record of his activities are known.

In 1687 the tax levied was given to William to collect and this same year he was called to account by the friends for selling rum to the Indians. This was not contrary to any existing laws, at that time, but he bowed to the wish of the church.

He served his second term in the Assembly and in 1689 was appointed on the Committee of Grievances. On Nov. 2, 1689/90 he was appointed on the Commission of Peace in Bucks County.

In 1692 he and 12 others met at the Meeting House in Neshaminy and divided the county into townships. He was absent from Assembly in 1701 as he made a trip to England with his second wife Jane, in the interests of the church.

Between 1699 and 1701 he was Puisne Judge and one of the Justices of the Highest Court in the province. He was one of the Justices of the Supreme Court held at Chester April 18, 1699. In 1700 he was appointed to the Court of Inquiry in Bucks County.

In Dec. 1702 Court was adjourned to William's house and this was after his return from England.

In 1704 he was Treasurer of Bucks County and Collector of Money granted to the Proprietary by the Legislature, On March 28, he was summoned to Council for neglect in collecting tax money.

On March 23, 1705 he was sued for two thousand pounds for defamy by Gov. Evans. He was caught off guard by Gov. Evans men and thrown in jail for a month. The feeling ran so high that he was released and the suit was dropped without payment. Governor Evans also was recalled.

He was out of the Assembly from 1704 to 1707 when he was again elected. In 1709 was his last service in the Assembly. On Nov. 4, 1709, it was reported to the Assembly that he was unable to care for the Meeting accounts due to illness.

Mother Johanna died 7-4-1687 and William married second 10-11-1688 Jane Atkinson, widow of Thomas Atkinson. His land holdings were increased by this marriage and she was of great assistance to him in church work. She was a Minister and they often travelled in Gospel Work. They made trips to further the aims of the church in the New England states. They went to England and Ireland on Church business in 1701 and returned late in 1702.

After her second marriage, Jane moved with her children to her new husband's plantation in Falls township, more directly within the compass of Falls Mo. Mtg., and continued her activity in the affairs of that body.

An account of her life is given in The Friend, Vol. XXVIII, Phila. 1855, pp. 93, 102. By it she appears to have been an acknowledged minister before they removed to New Jersey (which this account says was in 1682). When she married William Biles, "in her he had a faithful helpmeet, and one well calculated to assist him in his journey heavenward". See White's "William Biles". At this time she began to travel in the ministry of the Gospel and her husband generally accompanied her. In 1st month 1689 with the unity of Falls Monthly Meeting and the approbation of the General Meeting of Ministers she visited Friends in East Jersey and Long Island.

William Biles was neighbor, friend, and political enemy of Richard Hough, Provincial Counciller. William Biles m/2 Jane Atkinson, widow of Thomas Atkinson and mother of William Atkinson who had married Richard Hough's daughter Mary.

She was buried 10-21-1709 and William died 3-19-1710.

William Biles was a powerful figure in early America. He was member of the Assembly of Pennsylvania and as such spoke out on one occasion in opposition to Governor Evans whom he felt unfit. "He is but a boy; he is not fit to be our governor. We'll kick him out; We'll kick him out".

When Governor Evans asked the House to purge itself of the contagion of the said pernicious member by expelling him, the House rose up and supported William Biles with great vigor. Whereupon the Governor wrote to William Penn and complained of Biles. The following answer was received by Governor Evans.

Letter written by William Penn to Gov. Evans
7th month 30-1705

"Much is said of the lewdness of Pennsylvania. I beg of thee to have regard to my character and give not that advantage against me, either with God, or good or bad men, whose ill use of it I most fear on a public account. I have just now received thine of 5th, 5 month and am very sorry that wicked man, D. L. could blow up any of his mermidons to such a pitch of brutishness as thy account of William Biles relates that is a meer vox et praeterea nihil, a cox-comb and a pragmatic ingrain. That fellow's plantation is a robbery on Pennsbury and if there be a grant, was not a purchase from me nor towed land writs for it was surveyed long before and done in my absence, formerly and Judge Monpresson can tell if I may not be deceived in my grant as well as the Crown, be it King or Queen. Since if confirmed it was on. Surprise and rattle an Inquisition about his ears if not a prosecution.

And know when the time is expired of session, he may be taken to task. Since the service he may pretend he was to attend is over.

And do first complain to the Friends and if they wont or cant bow him to make satisfaction, take it by law, thyself. Pray mind what I say be secret, wick is discreet and fall on him or any other such unruly people at once and make someone an example to terrify the rest. Thou hast not only my leave but liking and encouragement whether called Quakers or not.

12 William Biles, Jr., bapt. 12 Jan. 1671 (11-12-1671 O.S.) (d. 9-1-1739?) m. 11-1-1695 Sarah Langhorne daughter of Thomas and Grace (Whitehead) Langhorne. William Biles like his famous father held an important position in this new land. (Pa. Mag. Hist. and Biog. Vol. VII pp. 67-68: Thomas and Grace Langhorne. Jeremiah Langhorne by William J. Buck) The earliest information I possess of the family is in the year 1662, when Thomas Langhorne, the father of Jeremiah was committed to Appleby jail for refusing to pay a fine of five pounds for attending a Friends Meeting. This was the long and oppressive reign of Charles II, and for more than 20 years after that date he still underwent persecution on account of his religious profession. In consequence of his repeated sufferings from the intolerable spirit of his age, he at length concluded to seek in the wilds of the NEW WORLD that freedom of conscience which was denied him in his native land. With this in view, he procured a certificate of recommendation from the "Friends Quarterly Meeting" at Kendal in Westmoreland, England of which he was a member being dated 5-4-1684. On account of numbers of his persecuted brethern in the faith having emigrated to Pennsylvania within the two years preceeding, he resolved to follow with his family consisting of his wife, Grace, and son, Jeremiah and daughter, Sarah.

It is said that he sailed for America in the 6th month, 1684 accompanied with several other "Friends" from West-moreland and after landing in Pennsylvania, they removed up into the country to make their settlement in Middletownship, Bucks Co., Pa., where a few "Friends" had already gone before them. Thomas Langhorne was a preacher of intelligence and influence; he died in a few years after he purchased his plantation and made improvements.

Sarah Langhorne was married to William Biles Jr. of Falls Township 10, 1695. He was the eldest son of William Biles who settled with his family near the Falls in Bucks County 4-4-1679. Proud says he was a preacher among "Friends" and had taken up his lands under a grant from Gov. Andros of N. Y.

He served as Sheriff of Bucks County, 1704-1707. William Biles, Jr. was elected to the Assembly from 1710-1711, 1718-1725, 1732, and 1735-1737, and was chosen Speaker of the Body. He was appointed Speaker Oct. 14, 1724. In 1717, he was appointed Corornor of Bucks County, Pa. He was Justice of the Peace; intermittently from 1718-1738; Sept. 6, 1718; Jan 4, 1722, May 12, 1725; Sept. 13, 1726; Sept. 9, 1727; and Nov. 22, 1738. In 1721, he was viewer for a road from Yardley's Ferry to Neshamina Meeting House. In 1724, he was commissioned to build a new Court House and prison at Newton, the new county seat of Bucks County. He was admitted to the bar in New Jersey, Dec. 5, 1721. Also a member of Proprietors of West Jersey.

It appears from Bucks County Records that the estate of Thomas Langhorne was not fully settled until 1697. Administrators were his wife Grace, and son, Jeremiah, and daughter Sarah Biles. Grace Langhorne survived her husband about seventeen years. She was buried 3rd month 10th day, 1715. He died August 6, 1687 (?). As a woman she must have borne her share of afflictions. More than once to be a witness to the trials and imprisonments of her husband for conscience sake, then to leave her native land to follow him across the wide ocean to settle down in the woods of Pennsylvania and here, left a widow, with the sole cares of a family were hardships indeed.

Judge Langhorne died 10-11-1842 -- his will is quite lengthy --- He gave his plantation "Langhorne Park" to Thomas Biles. The estate contained more than 800 acres of land and the description was quite lengthy, it must have been really a show place. He gave the estate to Thomas Biles, the son of his nephew Thomas Biles, deceased.

To his neices — Sarah, wife of Lawrence Growden and Hannah Janney he gave 1000 acres to be divided equally. This land lay near Perhassy. He gave 1000 acres adjoining the above to James and Andrew Hamilton (sons of his friend, Andrew Hamilton). To his kinsman, Thomas Langhorne, (late in the service of Lord Lousdale) and to be divided to his kinsman, William Jackson of London 500 acres on Monackosy Creek. — To his sister, Sarah Biles, wife of William Biles Jr., deceased, an annuity of 50 pounds. --- To Lawrence Growden he gave all his books except such part as the said Thomas Biles, son of his nephew, Thomas Biles, shall choose when he becomes of age. -- p. 81 Elizabeth Nichleson and Grace Galloway, children of Lawrence Galloway. -- Vol. 26, Pa. Mag. Hist. and Biog. page 357.

William Biles of Falls Township — will dated 12-3-1737. Proven 9-27-1739 recorded Liber 1, fol 167. -- In it he mentioned; His sons, William, Charles, and Langhorne; his daughters, Elizabeth Biles, Ann Pennington, and Hannah Janney; grandchildren William, Jeremiah, and John Beatts, (Bates); Edward, Mary and Sarah Pennington; Thomas and Margaret Biles — All his grandchildren he left most land in West Jersey -- Left the Island to his son William. In 1726, William Biles, Jr. built a fine, large, brick home on the banks of the Delaware River -- 3 miles south of Morrisville and opposite Biles' Island which he owed. The house was still standing in 1930 (since then, it has been destroyed by fire) and there was a large stone in the upper east end marked W. B. & S. (1726).

Major Thomas Langhorne Biles - will made 1-17-1775 d. 4-16-1780 killed by the British at Paramus, Jersey served with the 3rd Regiment. Proved April, 1780.

On the 16th ult, a detachment of two hundred continental troops, under command of Major Byles, of the Pennsylvania line, stationed at Paramus, was suddenly attacked by a party of the enemy, consisting of about two hundred horse and four hundred foot. The attack commenced a little after sun-rise. Major Byles, besides his usual patrols, had that morning sent out two parties, each with a commissioned officer; but such is the situation of that part of the country, intersected with roads, and inhabited chiefly by disaffected people, that all precautions failed. His parties and patrols were eluded, and the sentinels near his quarters were the first that gave notice of the enemies approach. He had just before paraded and dismissed his men. The advance of the horse was so rapid, that no time was left to reassemble them. The Major had no resource but the defence of the house he was in; thus, therefore, with only a small quarter guard, he resolved to attempt, though from the smallness of his force, and its entire disproportion to the place he was defending, he could have no prospect of success; but chose rather to fall in a brave, though hopeless, resistance, than to save himself by a dishonourable surrender. He immediately made the best disposition the hurry of the moment would permit, and animated his men by his exhortation and example. A brisk fire ensued on both sides. The house was soon surrounded on every part, and no effort of the little party seemed capable of hindering the enemy from forcing their way. Some of the men, intimidated by so threatening a scene, began to cry for quarters; others, obeying the commands of their officers, continued to fire from the windows. The enemy without upbraided them with the perfidy of asking quarters and persisting in resistance; desiring them to come out and they would quarter them. Major Byles exclaimed, in a determined tone, denied his having called for quarters; but his resolution could not avail, a surrender took place; and, in the act, the Major received a mortal wound in the left breast, of which, two days after, he expired a victim to his gallantry and refined sense of duty. So distinguished and enviable a fall must endear his memory to his fellow soldiers and fellow citizens.

Lieutenants Glenworth and Sherman had thrown themselves in the Major's quarters, and assisted in the defence. They displayed great activity and bravery. The latter was wounded. Such part of the detachment as could be collected together, aided by a few spirited militia, hung close upon the rear of the enemy during their retreat, and harassed them with a continual fire, retaking four waggons with plunder and nineteen horses.

Lieutenant Bryson being a few days before detached by Major Byles with a small party to the New Bridge, defended that post for some time with great gallantry and coolness, he sustaining in person, with his esop-ton, the attack of four horsemen, and received several wounds; but being overpowered with numbers, surrendered to one of their officers. It is said he received marks of plitness from them, on account of the great bravery and deliberate courave displayed by him during the skirmish.

The enemy, agreeable to their usual mode of procedure, plundered and burnt the house and mill of Mr. John Hopper, and that of his brother's. In the former of the family of Mr.

Abraham Brasher lived, who, with the rest, were left almost destitute of a second change of clothes. The commanding officer being requested by Mrs. Brasher on her knees to spare the house, he damn'd her, and bid her begone, declaring they all deserved to be bayoneted. They made their boast, that as Major Byles did not present the hilt of his sword in front, when surrendering, they shot him. Thus died this brave and gallant officer a victim to their savage cruelty.

The loss on our side killed, wounded, and taken, was one Major, two Captains, four Lieutenants, and about forty rank and file. That of the enemy, by their own acknowledgment, near as many. Taken from Newspaper Extracts. "New Jersey In the Revolution".

The enemy having received intelligence that the Row-Galleys were dismantled, on Friday last formed an expedition up the Delaware consisting of the following force, two Row-Galleys, and three other armed vessels, with twenty-four, flat-bottomed boats, carrying between six and eight hundred British troops) in order to destroy the continental frigates, and a number of vessels that had been lodged in the different creeks; and to achieve such other exploits as have characterized the British arms, since the commencement of this cruel and unnatural war. Having set fire to the frigates and other vessels, they landed at Bordentown, burnt the dwelling-house and stores belonging to Joseph Borden, and inhumanly butchered three of the militia, who unfortunately fell into their hands.- The wind and tide being favourable, the country was not alarmed until the frigates were on fire. - The next day they proceeded as far up the river as Bile's Island, with an intention of visiting this place, but their boats meeting with an unexpected opposition from our artillery, which General Dickinson ordered down for that purpose, and the militia turning out with their usual spirit, upon receiving his orders, vast numbers were quickly assembled; after exchanging a few shot, the enemy thought appearances too unfavourable to proceed any farther. -On their return, they landed at Col. Kirkbride's farm, and destroyed all his buildings of every kind.

Bryan W. Biles

3 Charles Biles b. 8-12-1665 at All Saints Parish, Dorchester, Dorset County, England d. 1696 in Maidenhead (later called Lawrenceville), New Jersey. He was the son of Alexander Biles and Dorothy (Strong) Biles. Inventory made by John Anderson and Richard Stevens Oct. 23, 1731.

Charles accompanied his older brother William to America. They arrived on the "Sarah and Elizabeth" 4th month, 4th day, 1679. Charles was but a young boy at the time. The ship sailed from Weymouth, England to the Delaware River. Charles took up land with his brother William in Bucks County, Pa. before 1681. The land was by a grant purchased from Sir William Andros representing the Duke of York. In 1681, Holme's map of Bucks County, Pa. showed Charles and William Biles owning a sizable piece of land together which did not front on the river.

Charles and Sarah Biles appeared to live for awhile in Bucks County, Pa. after their marriage. They soon moved to Maidenhead, New Jersey where Charles died in 1696. Sarah married second John Brearley and had children: John Brearley, David Brearley, Joseph Brearley, Benjamin Brearley, and Mary Brearley who married John Oulden.

From the book, "Old Lawrenceville, N.J. (formerly Maidenhead, N.J.) Early Houses and People" by Donald E. Tyler ---

Since this book is concerned with early houses and their ages, the question will arise as to which is the oldest house in the area to which our study has been limited, from Baker's Basin Road north to the Township Line. The opinion has been widely held that "Old Brick", House No. 18, built in 1706 by Ralph Hunt the pioneer, is the oldest. Evidence will be presented indicating that this, the John Brearley Homestead, rather than "Old Brick" is the older.

The earliest settlers in the Maidenhead area came up the Delaware and northward from Trenton, rather than overland from Long Island, as did Ralph Hunt and other settlers farther north. John Brearley, born about 1645, died 1720, at age 75, came from York, England, via the Delaware River and settled at Maidenhead on "Spring Grove Farm" on what is now Lewisville Road, about 1680. This was many years prior to Ralph Hunt's arrival in 1694.

Mr. Tyler then proceeds to prove the age of the fine three story brick as the earliest house built in the area and also gives much genealogy of the Brearley family.

and his descendants

Bryan Biles

aided by

Lee Kennedy Biles

According to old letters written by John A. Biles about 1890, Henry Biles was the son of John Biles b. ca. 1720. John A. Biles was an authority on the Biles family having spent many years of his life doing research on the Biles family.

John Biles b. ca. 1720, father of Henry, by tradition is accepted as a descendant of either William, Charles or Jonathan Biles who were sons of Alexander and Dorothy (Strong) Biles of All Saints Parish, Dorchester, Dorset County, England. William and Charles Biles arrived in the Delaware 4th month, 4th day, 1679 and soon took up residence in Bucks County, Pennsylvania. Jonathan Biles came to America in 1681 and settled in the area of Beverly, Massachusetts.

- 1 Henry Biles b. 2-29-1748 in Bucks County, Pa. or Trenton, New Jersey d. 1-14-1811 at Monogahela City, Washington County, Pennsylvania m/1 1770 probably in Northampton County, Pa. Eleanor B. Patterson daughter of Alexander Patterson and sister of Justice and Captain, Alexander Patterson. She was born 6-11-1750 in Northampton County, Pennsylvania died 6-2-1802 at Smithfield, Monroe County, Pennsylvania.

Eleanor B. "Nellie" Patterson, was the daughter of Alexander Patterson of Pennsylvania and New Jersey who was a large land holder. Her brother was Alexander Patterson, who was a Justice and Captain in Northampton County near Easton. He was an officer in the Revolution. He was envolved in a very bitter, violent and bloody conflict called by various names: "The Connecticut Claims", the "Pennamite and Yankee Wars", the "First and Second Pennamite War" and finally "Old Settlers" against "The Wild Yankees" or "Half-Share Men".

Events built up for approximately 100 years with Land Grants from the English Kings and purchases of land from the Nations of Indians. In 1740 it became a terrible struggle between Connecticut and Pennsylvania for the beautiful Wyoming Valley. In January 1769, Leaders of the "Proprietaries of Penn" arrived for the defense of the Territory. They were Charles Stewart, Captain Amos Ogden and Sheriff Jennings of Northampton County, Pa. with able assistance from Captains Clayton, Francis and Craig. In February 1769 "The Susquehanna Company" of Hartford Connecticut arrived. Things became quite bloody. This discord ceased only during the Revolutionary War and was taken up immediately following the bitter struggle for independence. It was the same situation with only slightly different names. In 1783 there was established "A Committee of Settlers" for Connecticut and the "Committee of Pennsylvania Landholders" with Capt. Alexander Patterson, Chairman. The battle took place in Court and behind every tree until Compromises were reached in 1799. There continued to be outbreaks of violence until at least 1801/2. Henry Biles appears to have been related to many of the Pennsylvanians group other than his brother-in-law Alexander Patterson. The Pennsylvania group operated out of Northampton County, Pennsylvania.

Henry Biles and Eleanor Patterson Biles were no doubt married and lived for some time in Northampton County. Henry's military service is shown there for the years 1778, 1780, 1781, and 1782. He was listed as a private serving under Captain Timothy Jane (relative - probably Janney); Col. Jacob Stroud; Major John Gaston; Lt. Abr. Miller; Adj. Jacob Winans (also related); and Capt. Henry Shoemaker. Also serving in the same groups were other relatives Capt. James Place, John Bunnell, Benjamin Bunnell and Solomon Bunnell and others.

(Pa. Archives, 53rd. Series, Vol. 8, pp. 380, 418, 421, 435).

In 1781 there is a will for Edward McGennes of Lower Smithfield Twp., Northampton County, with witnesses: Abraham Van Campen, Moses Van Campen and Isaih Jennings. The inventory was made June 25, 1781 by Henry Shoemaker and Henry Biles. The old survey map of Northampton County shows property of Edward McGennes, deceased, now Henry Boyles. The map shows neighbors of Henry Biles to have been Phillip Riggs, late Manuel Gunsoules, now Martin Overfield, late John Howe now Phillip Riggs, late Ebenezer Arl now Ebenezer Jayne, James Place, Abraham Van Campen, Henry Shoemaker, Paul Herper, and Robert Patterson. Moses Coolbaugh

Henry and Eleanor had settled in Middlesmithfield, near Stroudsbury, Pennsylvania. In 1786, he is on a school tax list as Henry Boyle, 140 acres, weaver. Besides weaving and farming he owned a small still for making of liquors. He later sold his farm to Aaron Hankinson.

Most of the Biles children appear to have been born in Middlesmithfield. They joined old Minisink Church there, (New York Gen. and Biograph. Record - Vol. 57) an old Reform Dutch Church, On Sept. 20, 1787 Henry Biles (Boils) was examined and admitted to the Sacrament of the Lords Supper. Number 55, page 69 and on the same page number 60 - Examined and admitted to the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was Eleanor Biles, wife of Henry Biles. Henry Biles became a deacon on Feb. 23, 1789, page 67 - number 227, Benjamin born 2-9-1787 to Henry and Eleanor Patterson, baptised May 13, 1787; number 227, Mary born to Henry Biles and Eleanor Patterson, bapt. 6-7-1789. No date for birth given. There were many of our families in this church and a Robert Patterson and his wife - Riggs.

Henry Biles became interested in Shad Fishing about 1789 and formed with Judge Moses Coolbaugh the Biles-Coolbaugh Fishery, sine fishing on the Susquehanna River at the mouth of the Tawanda Creek. His son William P. Biles was working for him in 1795 and told how they often drew a seine from the river so full that it made a near wagon load.

The Biles brothers often went over the mountain some three or four miles to the Delaware River to swim near the old Dutch copper mines. They were excellent swimmers and took part in local wrestling matches and such sports. They also worked at the Fishery. In 1795/6 John Biles with young Alexander brought a load of salt over the mountains to Wilkes-Barre for the shad fishery. It was run up the river from there in Durham boats and a load of cured shad taken back with them.

Henry is shown in the records as a private, 4th class in various Companies. However, there is a record saying he was a recruiting officer during the Revolutionary War. On all public occasions or holidays he wore his military uniform and rode a good horse in the parades. He was a Federalist. He has been described as not too tall and portly, a quiet sort of man, full of fun and speaking in a slow manner.

Henry and Eleanor educated their children well for the times. John and Charles were surveyors. William was a lawyer, Robert a weaver, Henry a tailor, Alexander was trained to be a printer "intending to go with his uncle, Alexander Patterson, who was editor of a paper in Easton, Pennsylvania, to learn the trade".

In an account book from Coolbaugh's store (this book was in private hands in the Smithfield area in 1900) there appears an account of Henry Biles from 1797 to March 1807.

His sons had accounts: William Biles from 1802 to Sept. 1806, Henry from 1803 to 1805. John's account ended in 1803 when he went to the new "Louisiana Territory". (He was known to have been near Natchez, Mississippi)

Eleanor Patterson died June 2, 1802 and Henry later married Peggy Fields. John Biles had gone to Louisiana Territory and wrote home such glowing accounts of the new territory that the entire family, with the exception of Robert and Alexander, decided to go there. They must have gone shortly after closing their accounts at Coolbaugh's in 1807 or 1809.

They started their journey to Louisiana by going first to the western part of Pennsylvania, to Williamsport, now Monogahela, near Fort Pitt, now Pittsburg. It was here that Henry Biles died suddenly, as a result of a fall from a horse, Jan. 14, 1811. This changed the plans of the family. Charles, William and the two girls stayed near Pittsburg. Ben went on to Louisiana. Henry had already gone some time before by a different route (Henry Biles Jr. was a cripple and it is not sure that he ever married).

In 1840, Alexander Patterson Biles and his son Lewis were visited by a man named Courtright, who had stayed at William Biles, a lawyer in Monogahela and sent greetings to Alexander P. Biles. This was his brother William P. Biles.

There is no discription of Eleanor B. Patterson Biles. However, in the Delaware Watergap by Broadhead, there is some description of her brother Capt. Alexander Patterson. Alexander appears to have had some difficulty after the Wyoming Valley trouble, for the book says: "About 1800, a small log cabin was erected by some daring adventurer. There lived in this house of two rooms and an attic, a tall, white-haired, dignified looking man, with his wife and daughter of corresponding gentility. The interior of the rude dwelling had an air of refinement and its inmates bore evidence of having seen more prosperous days. The costly furniture, gilded mirrors, well stocked library, contrasted strangely with the wild surroundings. Many tales were current for a time. The master occupant of this establishment was none other than the notorious Alexander Patterson". I would suppose that she had the same quality of gentility and dignity and the same education.

In 1883, Adam Overfield, then 93 years old, remembered well "Old Hank" and Bill, Charles, Alex and "Poll". He played with them when they were young. He said they went away just a few years before the late war (1812). That Eleanor Patterson Biles died of Dropsy (1802) and that "Old Hank" remarried and had one child by this wife.

was a sister of Rebecca Place. Alexander Biles was not a large man and Rosanna was described as small.

The Biles boys besides working in the fishery and on the farm had time for games and fun. It is told how they often went over the mountain some three or four miles to the Delaware River to swim near the Old Dutch copper mines. It is said they were excellent swimmers and took part in all sporting events. Shell's, "History of Sussex and Warren Counties of New Jersey", gives an account of the sports of the day -- "horse racing, cards, wrestling, swimming, fox chasing, (In which a live fox was procured. The entrants paid a fee and the fox was allowed a head start. The men were dog first reached the fox had his entrance fee refunded, after which every one had a big community supper together." It would appear that life wasn't all struggle and death in our pioneering days. They seemed to have lots of fun also.

John Howard Biles writes of himself --- I was one of those near sighted little boys who never knew he was half blind until I started teaching school in a one room school in 1910. I discovered I could not see the back of the room. Glasses opened up a whole new world to me. I was urged and pressured to continue in school by my parents and friends, by way of Mansfield, Pa. State Normal School 1910; Grove City, Pa. College 1917; Graduate work at Michigan and Chicago after that. Taught five years in the public schools of Pennsylvania, three years at Grove City College; twenty-four years at Centre College, here in Danville, Ky. I then finished out in Public School work as Supt. of the Danville, Ky. Schools. I like the classroom much better than doing administrative work. I have a deal to teach two summer terms classes of math at one of the college here in the state. I have been out since 1962 but have been engaged in much more difficult endeavor, how to get a little white ball into a hole a lot of yards away. Very frustrating. I have a standing challenge to any old man and three of his grandsons to play me and three of my grandsons. If you have followed college football in recent years you know the oldest one, Sammy Burkett, playing for Georgia Tech in two of the big

Mary Place and Rosannah Place were sisters. They were the daughters of Captain James Place and Phoebe (Winans) Place.

He was a captain for three years 1842-1845 in the Union Light Infantry, Fourth Volunteer Battalion, Second Brigade, Ninth Division of the Pa. Militia. He was an extensive land owner and one of the best farmers of the county. He purchased the home-farm from his father-in-law, John Bunnell the spring before he married. His sister Rebecca kept house for him. He and his sons made the farm into a fine place, building stone walls, planting orchards and building a new house. The original house was moved across the road to become the "Summer Kitchen.

The grandchildren all loved the attic where many things were stored including the twin-cradle. He was a "Christain Gentleman" who at one time was connected with the Methodist Episcopal Church but severed his connections because of some church quarrel and never again united with any church. "Although a man of limited education, he was a great reader and kept thoroughly posted on all the leading questions of the day." He resided on the old home farm until his death. (John Addison Biles latter occupied the old home farm). Jacob and Mary Biles raised twelve of their thirteen children on this farm.

GRAND SIR TOMMY BECKS
TO HIS DESCENDANTS

1 Thomas Biles of Rowan County, North Carolina has been the object of a great deal of research. "Grand Sir Tommy" as he was called by his descendants was the common progenitor of most of the Biles family of the south and west as will be seen in the following pages.

It is thought he was in Rowan County by 1753. It is known he was in New Jersey in 1752 where his son, Thomas, my great great grandfather was born.

On October 20, 1757 Charles Biles sued for a money judgement in the Rowan County Courts. Many have concluded that Charles Biles who brought suit was the father of Thomas Biles who died in Rowan County 1784. Others say it was Thomas Biles first name that he dropped soon after coming to Rowan County. Some say it was his brother. It will suffice to say that there was a Charles Biles in Rowan County at that time.

By tradition, it is accepted that Thomas Biles of Rowan County, North Carolina was a descendant of William or Charles Biles who came to America from All Saints Parish, Dorchester, Dorset County, England, arriving in the Delaware River fourth day, fourth month, 1679 (fourth month being June).

The Biles family had suffered long from the tyranny of English Kings. For indeed, they had left their home land in 1679 to seek their fortune in the wilds of the new world. When the Kings of England began to assert too much authority over them in Pennsylvania and New Jersey, the family which was to become the ancestors of most of the southern and western groups decided to move down the valley into North Carolina to seek the greater freedom their natures demanded.

Here it was the desire ran strongest to unyoke themselves from the rule of the English Kings. It was in this area of North Carolina where the Mecklenberg papers were signed and declared itself independent of England long before the Declaration of Independence.

Thomas Biles born ca. 1700/1720 was a Patriot who aided the government with currency and provisions during the Revolutionary War.

William Alexander Christopher Biles, my grandfather, used to tell the story of how his grandfather and great grandfather would take or send teams and wagons into the state of Virginia and bring loads of salt to the troops. Of course, these were stories told to him in his youth.

Thomas Biles married ca. 1740 in Pa. or New Jersey Elizabeth who was no doubt born there ca. 1700/1720. Elizabeth Biles died in Rowan County, North Carolina 1796. She survived Thomas twelve years. They moved down the Shenandoah Valley of Va. into Rowan County, North Carolina between 1752 and 1757. They undoubtedly were a part of a mass migration from New Jersey. There were many of the families of New Jersey in the area of North Carolina at the same time. They took up lands in the Jersey settlement about five miles above Salisbury. The soil here, near the great Yadkin River was to their liking. Their land adjoined the Yadkin River. According to J. Rumple's "History of Rowan County", there was no land in America more fertile or productive. Here, also, in the thickets of the Yadkin River was game in abundance. Thomas Biles loved to hunt and so it was that he brought up his sons to hunt. They were all considered excellent marksmen. Their training served them well during the great struggle of the Revolutionary War. It is known that three of his sons served in the Revolution. I have no reason to believe his other three sons did not also serve. There were no records kept at the time and one must rely upon pension records which would serve to disprove it. No other Biles families of age to serve were known in the area.

Thomas Biles' will, describes him as a Wheelright as does the will of his wife Elizabeth. The records of Rowan County, North Carolina will show he was a farmer as well. He dealt some in land and served in many political capacities. At times he was appointed to oversee the roads as well as to lay out new roads. "Biles Bridge" was an official landmark of the area as the records will show. He served at times as attorney for various people as well as to be agent for Surety and Bonds. He looked after the orphans and ye poor.

Religion played a large part in the history of the Biles family.

Being Quakers, they left England to flee religious oppression. Many of the family, however, were disowned by the Quakers for joining a military association about the time of Thomas' exodus from New Jersey to North Carolina. In fact, I have a record where a Thomas Biles, his brother William and his father William were all disowned by the Quakers about the time that Thomas was supposed to have gone to North Carolina.

In Rowan County, they were most active in church affairs. They were for the most part Methodists and Cumberland Presbyterian. There were a great number of Baptist and some embraced the Christian Church. Of course, I do not intend to imply that members of the family did not embrace nearly every denomination. Many of the Biles were ministers and were influential in setting up churches throughout the South.

It seems to me, however, I have never known a Biles I didn't think had some of the Quaker passed down to him.

The exact order of the birth for his children is not known. It appears, however, that the following order is probably correct - - - - Joseph T. Biles, Charles Biles, Daniel Biles, Thomas Biles, Deborah Biles, Jonathan Biles, Elizabeth "Dosey" Biles, John Biles and Ann Biles. For convenience, however, and since no order is known, I shall place the girls last in these groupings.

- 11 Joseph F. Biles b. ca. 1744 married 11-16-1769 Ann Johnson. signed by William Frohock, Moses Peans, and William Thomas Frohock.

The 1790 census of Rowan County shows Joseph to have one son over 16 and one son under 16 and 7 girls and his wife Ann. The 1800 census of Rowan County, N.C. shows him with one son between 10-16 two girls under 10 and one between 10-16 his wife and 4 slaves He is not shown in the 1810 census of Rowan County. This could indicate he died, moved, or the counties were subdivided and he was in another county.

I have made no further effort to trace him.

Charles Biles (Byles) b. 9-22-1747
It is presumed he was born in New Jersey. However, I have more than one account that says he was born in Pennsylvania. No record of his marriage has been found. There is no record of his having married in Rowan County, N.C.. In the 1790 Census of Rowan County, N.C. he is listed with three sons and one daughter. The boys are under 16. It may be assumed he married ca. 1780.

I have in my possession Revolutionary Pay Vouchers (copies) which appear in this book. Upon examination you can see they are identical except for name. One is made to my great great grandfather Thomas Biles and the other to Stephen Biles. A further examination of their declarations which also appear in this book would lead one to believe that Charles had as either a first or second name Stephen. It is not uncommon for a person to use one name at one time and another at a different time. It could be that when his son, Stephen, began to grow up he began to use the name of Charles to cut down the confusion of being called to supper by his wife. Charles had sons Charles and Stephen. According to old letters in my possession Charles had 5 sons and perhaps several daughters. The sons, as named in the letters, were - Charles, Jr.; Isaac; Stephen; Thomas and Sandy. However some confusion could have been made with sons of his brother Thomas who had sons named Isaac, Thomas and Alexander (Sandy).

The following declaration which was made in order to obtain pension as a Revolutionary War soldier may be obtained from the General Services Administration, Washington, D. C., 200408.

Declaration in order to obtain the benefits of the act of Congress passed June 7th 1832 State of Tennessee, Henry County, September Sessions, 1832.

On this 4th day of September 1832 personally appeared Charles Byles in open court before the worshipful county court of said county - now setting - being a resident of said county and State - aged about eighty three years - who being first duly sworn according to law - doth on his oath make the following declaration in order to entitle him to a pension under said act of Congress - That he entered the service of the United States about the year 1778 - in the month of March in the town of Salisbury - County of Rowan and State of North Carolina - which county he was a citizen at that period - as a volunteer - in the company commanded by Capt. Hugh Montgomery - Lieutenants in said company - James Craig and David Neisbet - which company was attached to Col. Frances Locke Regiment - and General Giffeth Rutherfords Brigade - that he served a three months tour in said company - that during said tour they travelled from Salisbury to Fayetteville and beyond about twenty or thirty miles - after serving said three months tour - he again entered the service on 10th of March 1779 in Salisbury and served about five months in the company commanded by Capt. Robert Basttey - Lieutenants - William R. Davie - who was the late General Davie of North Carolina distinguished in that state as a lawyer; Nathaniel Alexander - which company was for a time attached to Colonel

Malmada (?) Regiment a French Officer - afterwards we were attached to a Regiment of the Virginia line - We passed through Charlotte and or near Augusta in Georgia - from there to Charleston - we met the enemy at Staus (?) where we had a severe engagement or battle with them - soon after said battle we returned home - We hereby relinquish every claim to a pension except the present and declare that his name is not on the pension roll of the agency of any state,

The last time we were commanded by General Lincoln.

Sworn to in open court, Sept. 4th, 1832

Ble Brown(?), D. Clerk

We do hereby swear that we are well acquainted with the present applicant Charles Byles - and believe that he is of age set forth above - That he is a highly reputable man and understood and believed in his neighborhood to have been a soldier of the Revolution and that his statements are entitled to full credit.

James Cowan

Sworn to in open court, September 4th, 1832.

I, James Miller, a minister of the gospel, do certify that I am well acquainted with Charles Byles the present applicant for a pension - that he is a respectable man and understood in his neighborhood to be a Revolutionary Soldier.

James Miller.

And the said Court of Pleas and Quarter Sessions do hereby declare their opinion after the investigation of the matter and after the putting of the interrogation prescribed by the War Department that the above named applicant was a Revolutionary Soldier and served as he stated and that it appears to the court that said applicant is a credible person and entitled to belief and also that James Cowen whose name is subscribed to the foregoing affidavit is entitled to credit.

John Studdurt - Chairman of Henry
County Court

The court further certifies that James Miller is a minister of the gospel and a respectable man.

John Studdurt - Chairman of Henry
County Court

By the foregoing documents it is easy to see why it is hard to prove Revolutionary War Service. No accurate records were kept of war service. Service can only be proven by applications for pensions or pay vouchers, such as appear on pages 203 and 204 of this book.

This is a lengthy document composed of fourteen depositions given by relatives and people who had known the family. One deposition was given by Polly Butler, mother of John I. Butler who had married Edith Jeroma Biles. One was given by John I. Butler who stated that he was the son-in-law of Stephen Biles deceased. Mrs. Whitfield, a neighbor, stated "about three years ago last May Stephen Biles', deceased, wife died leaving two little girls and three little boys which needed attention. I think the grown son Stephen N. and two grown girls were living at home also. One of the girls married after the mother's death." Another of the depositions say that Charles W. H. Biles was appointed guardian of the five young children after the death of the father, Stephen, and they should continue to live on the home plantation. This document also states that in the fall of 1847 Charles W. H. Biles was not married. Stephen Biles was a resident of Madison County, Alabama in 1810 at which time his father Charles Biles Sr. gave power of attorney to his son Stephen Biles of Madison County, Alabama to sell land Charles Sr. had received in Rowan County, North Carolina by the will of his father Thomas Biles Sr. - see Bk. #25 p. 683 11-12-1810 Rowan County, North Carolina Records- Power of Attorney from Charles Biles Sr. of Giles County, Tennessee to his son Stephen Biles of Madison County, Alabama to sell 350 acres on Dales and Second Creek which he, Charles Biles Sr. had inherited by the will of his father Thomas Biles Sr. of Rowan County, North Carolina - will dated Sept. A. D. 1781. Probated 1784.

Madison County, Alabama records do not show Stephen Biles owning land in that county until 1818 at which time he purchased a quarter section.

The land that Stephen Biles sold to Griffiths was joining or near the land Michael Biles bought of Todd and later sold to the Walkers when he,
 Michael, moved to Henry County, Tenn.

From the census records and the wide difference in ages of the children it appears that Stephen Biles probably married more than once. His first wife could have been a sister of John Coleman Walker whom he lived near before moving to Madison County, Alabama in 1817. Other sources say his wife was Lydia P. Eason, daughter of Lydia Harris and Robert Eason who married in Wilson County, Tennessee in 1802. The death certificate of Stephen Biles' son, Dewitt Clinton Biles, states that his mother's maiden name was Walker.

Charles W.H. Biles b. in Tennessee ca. 1812. According to court records he was 14 when his father moved back to Giles County, Tennessee. The same record states he was unmarried at the time of the death of his father. He was appointed guardian of his brothers and sisters who were at home when his father died. The 1850 census shows he was still unmarried and had these brothers and sisters living with him, Stephen Newton, John Coleman, Dewitt Clinton, Emily Vicotria, and Tennessee. He married before the 1860 census Susan R.L. "Sue" Brownlow b. in Tenn. ca. 1832/3. They lived near Aspen Hill and raised their family at the old home place.

Edith Jeroma Biles b. 3-24-1824 in Alabama d. 1885 m. 4-3-1845 at Aspen Hill, Tennessee John I. Butler b. 12-21-1809 d. 1863 son of John 1770-1837 and Mary "Polly" (Hunt) Butler. John Butler was one of the three first families to settle at Aspen Hill, Tenn. They moved to Tenn. in 1809 from Granville, N.C. where Mary's father Memican Hunt was the first Treasurer of N.C. The Butler family settled on the hill overlooking Richland Creek and east of The "Butler Ford" road. The Butler Cemetery is on top of the hill in back of the old house which stood until a few years ago. Tradition says there is a large amount of gold and silver buried on the place, buried there during the Civil War. Several people have bought it since it left the Eutler family. They pay a large amount for it, stay a few years and sell again. It is thought that people buy it with the plan of searching for the gold and silver and after finding it or giving up, they sell and move on.

Daniel Biles b. ca. 1749 either in Pa. or N. J., d. 1835. He left a will probated 1835 in Rowan County, North Caroling Book H, page 666. Most of his property had been given to his children prior to his will. He was a Pvt. in the Revolutionary War. He served in the Militia of Rowan County. There are numerous people who have been admitted to the D. A. R. on his Revolutionary Service. It is thought that Daniel and Jean (Conger) Biles had thirteen children. I have record of eleven and it is thought two boys died young.

Jonathan Biles b. 1-26-1780 d. 7-1-1861. He went to Wilson County, Tennessee about 1804 where it is thought that he took up land that was granted his father for military service. He m/1 8-6-1807 Mary "Polly" Barnett daughter of Robert Barnett who was a Revolutionary Soldier. Robert Barnett gave the couple land in Warren County. Tennessee as a dowry. This was land granted Robert for his Revolutionary Service. Jonathan is buried in the Mt. Zion Cemetery in the Mt. Zion community in Warren County, Tennessee. The land in Warren County which was held by Jonathan was by United States Government Warrant #286, Fourth Book, p. 36, Dec. 16, 1816.

Jonathan organized the Mount Zion Methodist Church Congregation, he having been converted in the "Great Revival" in 1800 while on a visit to Kentucky. The Barnetts were also Methodists. In fact, Wilson County was a hot-bed of Methodists, Bishop Asbury often holding conferences at Lebanon.

Jonathan's house had enormous rooms, two stories plus a very spacious attic. It was built of logs, two rooms with a wide hall between, first and second floors alike. It had the walls and overhead sealed inside and weatherboarded on the outside. There were three enormous porches - two along the front (upstairs and down) and one along the back on the ground floor. Originally there were small bed-rooms in the end of the porches, similar to all pioneer homes. but they were removed. Each of the rooms on the first floor had three doors leading to either porch and to the opening into the hall. There were enormous chimneys at either end of the house with fireplaces up and downstairs.

Jonathan was energetic, forceful, and irascible. He did not own slaves for he felt they were unprofitable. He was a farmer and an excellent one. Preachers and presiding elders made his home their headquarters, as did most other prominent visitors to the community.

THE BILES FAMILY

PEOPLE WHO HAVE BEEN PROMINENT IN THE COUNTY'S HISTORY THROUGH THREE GENERATIONS.

One of the earliest settlers of this county was Jonathan Biles, who came to Wilson County in 1804, from North Carolina and moved to Warren County in 1897, settling on Hickory Creek. His oldest son, Robert B. Biles, was born in 1810. In 1837, this son married Miss Nancy Ramsey, a sister of Mr. J.C. Ramsey, now one of McMinnville's oldest citizens. To this couple were born six sons and three daughters. The six sons are yet living, a group picture of them being shown on this page. One of the daughters is Mrs. Bettie Brown of Viola; another is Mrs. C. C. Bell, of Springfield., and the third was Mrs. Bellamy, who died in Montgomery County some years ago. Mr. Robert B. Biles died in 1873; his wife died in 1889. Of their nine children eight are still living, as before stated; sixteen grandchildren and fifteen great grandchildren have been born, all of whom are still living. Thus in four generations, covering a period of ninety years, but three deaths have occurred. Certainly a most remarkable record.

Of the sons, four are now living in McMinnville and two are residents of Sparta. Thomas B. Biles was in the mercantile business in Sparta for about twenty five years, but is now engaged in the lumber business. He enlisted in the Sixteenth Tennessee Regiment in April, 1861, fought through the entire four years of the war without ever receiving a wound from the enemy's bullets.

R. P. Biles is the senior member of the firm of R.P. Biles and Smith, at Sparta.

William Biles was a partner with W. S. Ross in the mercantile business at Increase for sixteen years, from 1871 to 1887. In 1878 he moved to McMinnville and formed a partnership with Wm. Houchin in the livery business, spending his winters in the South in the stock trade for a number of years. For the last five or six years he has been engaged in the hardware and grocery business with Butler Smith, under the firm name of Biles and Smith, and in one of the city Aldermen. He served during the last eight months of the war as a private in the Eleventh Tenn. Regiment.

John B. and Jos. R. Biles are engaged in the livery business in McMinnville, with Mr. Holder, constituting the firm of Biles Bros. & Co. John B. lived at Goodbars for a number of years, engaged in farming and merchandising, and still retains though he has resided in McMinnville for seven or eight years.

J. C. Biles was born in 1843; enlisted in the Sixteenth Tennessee Regiment in 1861; was severely wounded in the battle of Perryville, Ky., he rejoined his regiment at Shelbyville and fought in all its battles at Chickamauga, Missionary Ridge, Kennesaw Mountain, etc., until July, 1864 when he was again desperately wounded in one of the battles near Atlanta. After some weeks spent in the hospital at Forsyth, he again reported for duty at Columbus, but being too feeble for service in the field he was put on the retired list, and while endeavoring to make his way to his home in Tennessee, was captured and sent to Camp Chase, Ohio, where he remained till after the surrender. In 1865, he entered the Chancery office at McMinnville, as deputy under Mr. Josiah F. Morford, serving in the capacity until Mr. Morford's death in 1869. He was appointed Clerk and Master in 1876, and has held the position continuously ever since. As a member of the firm Morford and Biles he was identified with the mercantile life of McMinnville for about thirty years. He is a ruling elder in the Cumberland Presbyterian Church and has given generously of his means to charities and public enterprises. Has served a number of years as Mayor of the town and on the Aldermanic Board, and has been prominent in every movement for the advancement and upbuilding of McMinnville and Warren County since the War.

Dear Sir:

Your letter of Oct. 10, 1904 written at St. Louis and addressed to James Byles was just handed to me by a colored boy that has my name (an old family servant).

I will tell you about all I know of my ancestors of my name-my Great-Grand father Samuel Biles lived in Rowan County, N. C. near Salisbury. My grand father Jonathan Biles was born in N. C. in 1766. Emigrated to Tenn. with two brothers Joseph and John about 1804 and settled in Wilson County, Tenn. about 1808 came to this Warren Co. He married Mary Burnett, a sister of Thomas, William, and James Burnett, all three Cumberland Presbyterian ministers in the early history of that church. My father, Robert Burnett Biles was born in this, Warren County, in 1810 and married Nancy Ramsey in ? 1838- was a farmer, raised a family of 9 children, six sons and three daughters. He died in 1873 all the children are still living but one.

The writer was born in 1843 and has lived in this county all his life - my grandfather Jonathan Biles died in 1861. I have heard him speak of relatives living in Ky.

You say in your letter that your wife was born in Ky. and that she heard of my name while on visit to her old home. In what county in Ky. did her people live? One John A. Biles whose address is "Hornets Ferry Pa" wrote me some time ago to meet with the people of my name in a Reunion at St. Louis, Oct. 3-9, but on account of business engagements I was unable to attend. I am satisfied that all the people of my name sprang from the same stock.

Yours truly,

J. C. Biles

My Dear Sir:

Your letter of 26th., with the old letter read - this is indeed a strange incident, that you should be in possession of a letter written by my Grand mothers brother, in 1827, but strange as it may seem, such is the fact. My fathers mother was a daughter of Robert Burnett, she had four brothers John, William, James and Robert Burnett, all Cumberland Presbyterian ministers. The Writer of the letter that you enclosed me is one of them. I find their names in McDonalds, "History of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church."

Will you please tell me how this letter came into your possession? I have had copies of it made. I will send one to Hon. Warner E. Lettles, Frankfort, Ky. who is now one of the Supreme Judges of Ky. Judge Lettles Grand father was a judge in Ky., and a relative of the four Burnett Brothers - If you will write Judge Lettles, he is well up on his Burnett ancestry - I find by reference to the early history of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church, that William Burnett was a candidate for the ministry and attended this Presbytery at Russelville, Ky. - William Burnett was born April 24, 1785 died in 1827 in Carroll County, Tenn. It was his brother Robert that wrote the letter Sept. 15, 1827. It was written to either John or James Burnett, I think most likely John, as he at that time was connected with Cumberland College, at Princeton, Ky.. I will mail you under separate cover a copy of one of our county papers in which you can see something of my father family. If it should ever be my good fortune to visit your state. I shall call to see you. I am anxious to know some more of

you. If you do not care especially to keep this old letter I would like to file it in Nashville with the Cumberland Presbyterian Publishing House, as it would prove to be an interesting souvenir of the early history of the church.

My present wife was reared in Todd County, KY. She was living at Bowling Green in 1895, at the time of our marriage, her maiden name was Nellie Hollingsworth, a daughter of Thomas Hollingsworth.

I shall anxiously await your reply.

Sincerely yours,

J.C. Biles

Dear Cousin I received a letter from you a short time ago and I was glad to hear from you all.
But sorry to hear of Charlies great misfortune.
I will send him a crooked knife by mail today as I have it is a great help to a one armed person.
We are all well. I have one daughter Hattie 18 years old still at home and two of the boys Arthur and Emmett are at home this winter. My oldest son Lee is practicing medicine on White River 50 miles east of here. He booked from about a sum of 300 to 400 dollars per month last summer. I farmed a little last year and made 100 bu. of sweet potatoes on $\frac{1}{2}$ acre of land and 50 bushels of sweet potatoes on $\frac{1}{4}$ acre of land but I was hard run for cash during the year as my boys are doing for themselves but about January the first 1904 I received a Lycosite from Philadelphia that cost me one dollar. I canvased for 3 miles around home and engaged 40 at one dollar each and sent 24 dollars and got 6 dozen 33 $\frac{1}{3}$ each. I delivered 9 or 10 per day. I often cure headache, toothache, earache, or neuralgia in one to two minutes. I will order a gross today (144) and deposit some of them with a good many local agents about over this White County, Ark.. I like the business. I ride from house to house, relieve some pain almost in $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ hour and sell 5-7 per day at one dollar each. If I don't find the town already canvased with it, I think I will make one thousand dollars in clear money this year. I believe if Charles will send one dollar to the Lycosite Co. in Philadelphia and get one he can be relieving pain and sell at one dollar each and if they sell well order say six dozen. They will send in two weeks all for 24 dollars. If he undertakes it I will write to him about once per month and let him know how I am progressing. I will send some of the Lycosite advertisements with the knife. When I ordered 6 dozen Lycosites two weeks ago I asked for White County, Ark. for my territory to work in first, to work in as their general agent. They sent me a lot of these letter heads and envelopes as a present. If Charles don't want to try this business perhaps Jim Morrow would as he can't work on the farm much. Give my love to all and write soon to

Your Cousin,

Benton H. Biles

Cynthia Cosson Gillis b. 1795 d.
11-17-1882 buried at Mt. Zion by the side of her husband, Jonathan Biles.
Cynthia was the daughter of Reverend John Cosson, a highly educated and cultured Presbyterian minister of East Tennessee. The Rev. Cosson was descended from the well known French family, the Branch to which he belonged having resided in England for several generations. He was educated in Lady Huntington's School of Theology in London. He came to the colony of N. C. of which Tennessee was then a part and became a member of the Abingdon Presbytery which was formed in 1785. After Tennessee became a state the Abingdon Presbytery was divided and Cosson became a member of the Tenn. branch, The Union Presbytery.
He was in all the controversy of the day over theology, as related to the church and state histories, always taking the "new" or "progressive" side. He was present at the meeting of the Presbyterian General Assembly up to 1809. (Presbyterian Historical Society, Philadelphia). The Jonesboro church, with its quaint steeple, where he preached, was still standing a few years ago. His name is spelled Cousson in Garrett and Goodpastures, "History of Tennessee" 1903: pp, 155-6.

Cynthia was first married to George Washington Gillis, a captain in the war of 1812. They had one daughter Harriet Huntington Gillis whose decendants live in Warren Co., Tenn. and in Albany, Georgia.

 Jonathan Asbury Biles bought the Biles homestead from the heirs and took care of his mother until her death.
 A sketch of his life appears in the "History of Mount Zion Methodist Church" by Louise Biles Hill. Elizabeth
 Mathews family were large slave holders.

Jonathan Asbury Biles was educated at Irving College in Warren County, then in its hey-day, with brick dormitories corresponding with the main building. He was the best educated man in the county. He was both a teacher and a farmer and his last illness occurred while he was teaching. He was never strong. All his adult life he served as magistrate and member of the county court, the office being administered in the good old English manner, which is to say that he was the counselor and friend of the whole community, looked up to for advice and called upon to settle all difficulties. He had an excellent library for his time and the conditions that prevailed after the war, consisting of books on science, history, literature, law, etc.

He served in the war and by necessity had to leave his wife alone with her two small children. When he died she was left with four small children at home.

For many years after his father's death Charles took care of his mother and his sister and two brothers. He lost an arm in an accident in 1903 and his eyesight in 1947. His mother was quite a character and was so opposed to him joining the Christian Church that he did not do so until after her death. Once when it was reported to her that he had joined the "Campbellites" she remarked that "I hope they will drown him when they baptize him!" The remark created a great deal of amusement in the community and was repeated for many years.

Isabella Biles - Petition for a Divorce Submitted to - To the honorable the Senate and House of Representatives of the State of Tennessee.

The petition of Isabella Biles respectfully sheweth; - That in the year one thousand eight hundred and eight she intermarried with a certain James Biles in the County of Wilson and State of Tennessee. Shortly after her marriage she removed with her husband to the County of Warren and State aforesaid where, for the space of seven years they continued to reside together. For a considerable time after their marriage, her hopes of happiness with her husband seemed to be realized; and, of his conduct toward her she had no reason to complain. The scene of her felicity however, for the last two years of their residence together, was exchanged for distress, increasing with the lapse of time; and finally rendering him, to whom she had considered the expectations of her future life, her most envenomed foe. The squandering of their little property, their gradual descent from competence to poverty, with all its attendant privations and evils, she could have born without reprising; but, when super added to all, the cruel treatment of her husband, which even aimed more than once at the destruction of her life, completed the climax of her distresses, none but those who have drank of a similar cup of bitterness, can conceive the misery of her fate. Conscious of having never in the most trivial manner deviated from the duty of an affectionate and obedient wife, she still cherished the delusive hope that her long suffering patience would subdue the evil feelings which seemed to actuate him; but that hope proved lighter than vanity; as in the year one thousand eight hundred and fifteen, seven years after their ill fated marriage, he deserted her, taking with him a son, their eldest child, and leaving her with three infants to encounter alone the storms of life, deprived of every stay saves innocence and Heaven. Since the period of his departure the month of April 1815 she has never received the slightest assistance from him toward the maintenance of herself and children. From that time until the present she has found in the unvarying shelter of paternal and fraternal affection that support and protection of which she was left destitute by him from whom she had a right to claim them by every tie both human and devine.

Aided in this way she has laboured for the education and maintenance of her three remaining children; endeavouring as far as in her power, to raise them in such a manner as to be useful to themselves and this country. Eleven years have now rolled away since the period of her desertion and for the far greater part of that time she has been and still is ignorant of what part of the globe contains her unfortunate husband; or whether he has yet a place among the living.

Believing that his conduct in absenting himself for such a period of time, and leaving her and her infants to subsist upon the charity of the world, but for the love of her relations, has morally, on his part dissolved the ties existing between them heretofore, she is unwilling longer to continue bound to him, who has shown so small regard to her. She is fully aware that an application to a court of Justice would produce the result that she now seeks by applying to your honorable body. But she is deterred from making that application, for one reason among many others,- the expense of the process. Left destitute as she has been, but for the tender care of her relations, she and her infants must have drank the cup of poverty and distress to the very dregs, and she is unwilling to impose upon the brother with whom she has for several years resided, an expense which could be evaded, though she is confident he would not hesitate to meet it in her behalf. To the Representatives of her County therefore she applies for relief as a distressed female, an injured citizen; and she flatters herself that her application will not be vain.

She therefore prays your honorable body, that a law may be passed dissolving the bonds of matrimony between her and the said James Biles; and as in duty bound your petitions will ever pray be.

Hardeman County,

Personally came before me an acting Justice of the Peace for said County the above petitioner Isabella Biles and is due form of law made oath that the facts set forth in the foregoing petition are true.

Dear Sir:

I am corresponding with a large Biles family in Wash. State. The father, Charles, was born Aug. 1809, in Warren Co., Tenn. His brother James, was born in Hopkins Co., Ky. There were two sisters Margaret who married - Gay? in Miss. and Euphemia. They know of no more children, and think the fathers name was John, who had some brothers but they got separated and have lost trace of them and can't tell their names. Charles when nearly grown went back to North Carolina, to live with his grandfather (name unknown) where he remained until 1828 when he went to Ky., Crittenden County, where his mother had married a Mr. Blue after his father's death. His brother James, had stayed with his mother, and later had gone to Miss., where he married, in 1857 the widow of Wiley Biles (Nancy Merry Carter) of Yazoo, Miss. He later lived in Tenn. Charles married Sarah Wright Usher in 1831 and lived in Triggs County, Ky. 1832. After many years of separation Charles and James came together again and in 1853 moved from Ky. across the plains to Washington. Each had large families. Charles died in 1869. James in 1888. Two sons of James now live in Olympia, Wash., George Wiley and James Blue. Charles son David F. died in 1897 and his son Charles N. in 1897. Each had large families and have numerous grandchildren.

Can you locate this family of John of Warren County, Tenn. Can it be your father's uncle John. I know so little of him, I am not able to tell, but their John came from North Carolina because Charles, went back there, to live with his grandfather several years. Yet by your recent letter, it does not seem to be hardly consistant, while there is a son Charles, the rest of the names do not apply. One of these Biles thought the name might be James, instead of John, and that three brothers came from England, when John was 10 years old. This disagrees with the others ideas. Some of them are confused or mistaken. I am convinced that your people are of the old Pa. stock, and I find more every day to prove it.

There is a continous line of Biles from Bucks County Pa. to Md. (Baltimore) and I hear of them in Va. to W. Va. Thomas, Charles, and Daniel are a few of the names that I find around Salisbury, N. C. that I can't find among the other colonies. The dates also correspond well and we may yet find the connecting link. I found one last week for which I had worked several years, in our line, wishing you health and pleasure.

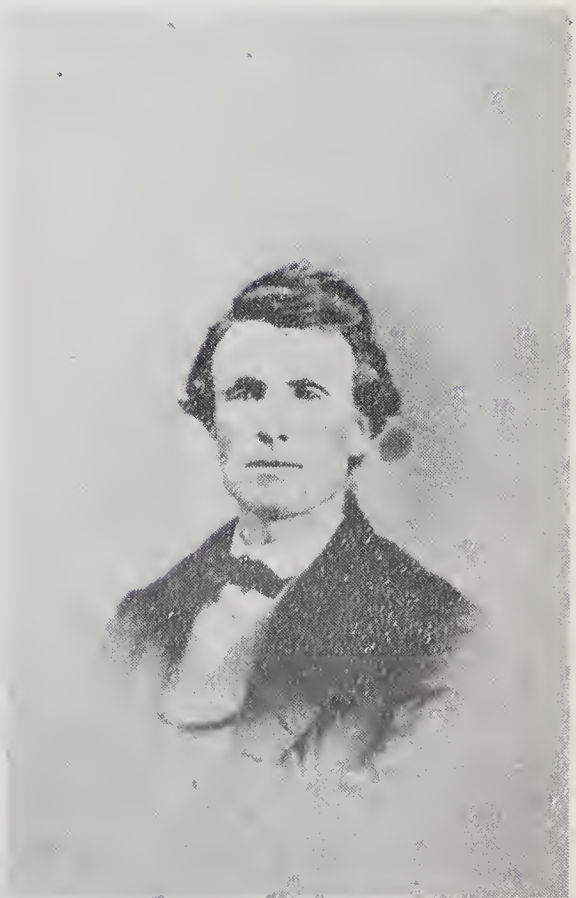

I am Fraternally

John A. Biles son of Jacob P., son of Alex P., son of Henry, son of John from near Trenton. As I find several Johns, I am uncertain yet whether he is a son or grandson of Charles or William, as each had them. (John) 1341 Charles J. Byles b. Aug. 1809 in Warren County, Tenn. d. 2-26-1869 in Grand Mound, Washington m. 1832 in Kentucky to Sarah Wright Usher daughter of David and Rebecca (Erwin) Usher. Sarah was b. 10-9-1811 in Virginia d. 1-23-1883 in Grand Mound, Washington. While Charles was living in North Carolina he learned of the two spellings of the Biles-Eyles name and decided that the spelling Byles was the older spelling and therefore the correct spelling.

MR. & MRS. M.Z. GOODELL

Rev. Charles J. Byles was a Cumberland Presbyterian circuit rider. In 1853, he and his brother James come together again after many years of separation. They soon decided to take their families to the Washington Territory where they could obtain free land and start anew without slaves. Capt. James Biles was Wagon Master and guided the Wagon Train through the Natchez Pass in 1853. The story is very beautifully told in the book "Nothing in Life is Free" by Della Gould Emmons. The book was a best seller in 1953 and was accepted by the State of Washington as the official book commemorating the Washington Territorial Centennial.

Rev. Charles J. Byles held Sunday service all along the route. After taking up a homestead at Mount Prairie, he would travel all over and preach on Sundays.

Obituary of David Usher Father of Mrs. Charles J. Byles. Christian City, Kentucky, Oct. 3, 1834.

On the 29th of Sept., at his residence in Christian County, Ky., Mr. David Usher, aged 59 and 10 days. Mr. Usher made a creditable profession of religion in 1825, at the Camp-meeting at the Salubrian Springs, and joined the Cumberland Presbyterian Church; and was soon afterwards chosen by the church as ruling Elder, in which office he has frequently acted in Presbyteries, Synods and General Assembly; and in all his acts, both as an elder and private member of the church, has been approved and much esteemed; and seemed, through his Christian life frequently to enjoy religion and to give evidence that he was truly the child of God, and the servant of the church.

For a more strictly honest and rigidly upright man in all his dealings, I have never known. For the church and for his family he has done much, and they will feel seriously his loss.

Obituary of Mrs. Sarah W. Byles wife of Charles J. Byles

Jan. 23, 1883

Mrs. Sarah Wright Byles in her 72 year, has departed this life in peaceful triumph.

Sarah Wright Usher, was born in Virginia; Oct. 9, 1811. Her parents, moved from Virginia to Ky. in 1812. She was united with the Cumberland Presbyterian Church in her 16th year. She was married to Charles J. Byles in 1831. He was a clergyman of the same faith and church. Three of her sisters married ministers of that church. The first Cumberland Presbyterian Church was organized in her grandfather's house, on her mother's side. In 1853, after their arrival in Washington Territory, her husband organized a Cumberland Presbyterian Church, which ceased to exist after his death. Sister Byles then with her interesting family united with the M.E. Church and lived in its communion up until the time of her death. Her family on both her father and mother's side were religious people. Her record in this regard is remarkable. Her influence and that of her own family has been favorable to the Christian cause and honoring to the Christian name. She was a sufferer nearly all her life from cancer, but still was resigned, patient and uncomplaining. All her counsel was becoming a Christian mother. All her counsels were pure. Everything she did or taught was as in sight of eternity. She has been making her home for some time with her daughter and son-in-law, Hon. M.Z. Goodell, at Greenwood, where she was tenderly cared for till the parting came, In regard to the past she had no regrets, for she had been humble follower of the Savior. The sermon was by Rev. S. D. Lougheed from Psalm 17, 15: "As for me I will behold Thy righteousness; I shall be satisfied when I awake with Thy Likeness.

13411 David Francis Byles b. 3-19-1833 in Trigg County, Ky. d. 6-21-1897 at Elma, Wash. m. in Grand Mound Wash. 7-21-1853 Mary Jane "Molly" Hill daughter of Robert Hill of Tenn. & S. C. and Lauretta (Meelin) Hill of S. C.. She was b. 8-11-1833 in Hopkins County, Ky. d. 6-10-1916 in Bellingham, Washington. They were both on the famous wagon train to Washington in 1853. Molly accompanied the Byles family on the wagon train. David was Mayor and Founder of Montesano, Wash.. He owned a Tannery.

Obituary of David F. Byles

Last week's issue of The Vidette told of the serious injuries received in a runaway by Elma's leading citizen, Mayor D. F. Byles, and this week must tell of Mr. Byles death, which occurred at six o'clock Monday evening, 6-21-1897, after five days of suffering from the painful injuries received.

The service was held in the M. E. Church and preached by Rev. W. I. Cosper, who had been an intimate friend of Mr. Byles for twenty-five years. The remains were taken by train to the family burial ground at Grand Mound, where Mr. Byles father, mother and only daughter are buried.

Mr. Byles was in every sense one of the leading citizens of the county, and his loss is a severe blow, not only to the community in which he lived, but to the county at large. He was mayor of the city of Elma, and the Chehalis county member of the State Immigration Society, and was ever ready to give time and money for the advancement of Chehalis Co. The following is a sketch of Mr. Byles life, published in 1894.

David F. Byles had been a resident of Washington for forty years, and has witnessed the mighty change wrought by hand of man in four decades. He was born in Trigg County, Kentucky, March 19, 1833, a son of Charles and Sarah W. (Usher) Byles. When a youth of twenty years it was determined that the family should emigrate to the Pacific coast. He purchased 300 head of cattle, drove them into Missouri, where he was joined by his parents, and then they journeyed via Natchez Pass to Washington, being the first party to go directly to Washington by this route. They arrived in Olympia Oct. 21, 1853. Our subject first took a claim in Thurston county, on Grand Mound prairie; he had a tract of 320 acres, on which he lived until 1858.

On July 21, 1854 he married Mary Hill, a daughter of Robert and Laretta Hill, natives of Tenn. and S. C. respectively; the father was born 1811 and the mother in 1812.

During the Indian war Mr. Byles joined the volunteers under Captain Henness, and served six months. He removed to Olympia in 1858, and for one year was writing field notes in the surveyor-general's office; the following year he located on the present site of Cosmopolis, surveyed the town site, and built a tannery, and later he and A. E. Young owned the entire tract on which the town now stands. Disposing of a one-half interest in said property, he moved to and pre-empted a homestead named Greenwood, and bought an additional 160 acres, making in all a tract of 420 acres. There he lived for twenty-eight years, carrying on a general farming business. In 1881 he came to Elma, erected a large residence, and is now living in the quiet enjoyment of the competence accumulated by years of faithful toil and industry. For twenty years he served as deputy United States surveyor, and was also County surveyor of Chehalis county. He is a member of the Grand Mound lodge, No 4, F. & A. M. In all the associations of life he has shown that honor and integrity of character that have placed him in the front rank of the most highly respected citizen.

Mr. and Mrs. Byles are the parents of five living children:

Since coming to the coast both have visited the scenes of their early life, but the charm of their western home remains unbroken.

Obituary of Mrs. Mary (Hill) Byles, wife of
D. F. Byles

Mrs. Mary Byles, known to Montesano friends as Aunt Mary passed away at the home of her son Charles P. Byles, in Sedro Wooley. The deceased had been ill only a few hours, death being the result of a paralytic stroke. Mrs. Byles has made her home with her son, Lee N. Byles, at Bellingham the past winter, and had gone to Sedro Wooley only a week before her death. The funeral services were held Monday morning at Elma, the body being brought to that place Sunday. The services were conducted by Rev. J. A. Landen, of Seattle, Superintendent of the Bellingham District of M. E. Church, an old time friend of the Byles family. Miss Mary Hill was born near Hopkinsville, Ky, 8-11-1833 and lacked only two months of being 83 years of age at her death. She grew to young womanhood in Kentucky and in 1853 left her home with the family of Rev. Charles Byles and his brother James to make the long and perilous trip by wagon train across the plains and the mountains to this state. She was most likely impelled to make the trip on account of her engagement to David Byles, who was then located on Grand Mound. After arriving at their destination Miss Hill made her home for several months with Rev. Mr. Byles and family until her marriage in July 1854 to David Byles. Mr. and Mrs. Byles made their home at different times at Cosmopolis and on a ranch near Elma, the latter place being carved out of the wilderness and was a very lonely home for the brave pioneer woman. The farm was surrounded by the dense forests, and wild animals of all kinds were plentiful and a source of terror to the woman of that day, when circumstances forced them to be alone at night on the homesteads. But, as has ever been the case with the courageous women who helped to carve out a great state from an untamed wild, Mrs. Byles bore all of the privations and loneliness of the pioneer life without a murmur and was happy in assisting her husband in building up a home and caring for her children. She was one of the most lovable women the county ever knew and her friends were numbered as all who knew her. Not only in her own home was her kindness and living attentions manifested, but all of her neighbors and friends had cause to be grateful to Aunt Mary, or Grandma Byles, as she was variously styled. The deceased is survived by four sons. All of the elder residents of the county and those of the younger generation who knew Aunt Mary mourn the passing of a noble woman.

Mrs. E. Byles Goodell from the newspaper Montesano Vedette - loaned by Mrs. W. A. Dickey

Mrs. Rebecca E. Goodell died at her home on Broad Street, Montesano, Sunday morning, Sept. 2, 1900 at 8:15 o'clock. Funeral was held Monday at 10 A. M. , services in the M. E. church; interment Montesano cemetery. She was a daughter of Charles J. Byles. When she was 11 years old she left their Ky. home with her parents to penetrate the then comparatively unknown Northwest country. In 1853 they joined the cavalcade in Iowa and drove across the almost forbidding Rockies. They settled on Grand Mound Prairie in Thurston County, Washington. On June 7, 1858, she was united in marriage to the late Hon. M. Z. Goodell, then living in Thurston County, where they resided until 1870, when they moved to Chehalis County and settled on a farm near Elma. They resided there until 1882 when they moved to Montesano, where he became prominent in politics. He died June 9, 1892.

She was one of the few early pioneers in Wahington. She saw the progress of the state from a veritable wilderness and took an active part in the stirring events incident to the Indian Wars. She was one of the number of pioneers who was forced to endure the inconveniences and hardships of the campaign of 1855-6. This raged with incipient violence throughout the territory for more than a year, and so precarious did the situation become that the family was compelled to flee from their home to the block house on Grand Mound Prairie, and assisted materially in it's defense.

Mrs. Goodell was loved and respected by all who knew her. For years she was an active member in the M. E. church, into which she was taken in 1868, and also participated in many social functions of the other organizations of the church.

Her sickness has been of long continuation, and for the last ten months she was unable to leave the sick bed.

Death of M.Z. Goodell from the Montesano Vidette
of June 10, 1892

CHEHALIS COUNTY'S MOST DISTINGUISHED CITIZEN AT REST

Seldom has this paper undertaken a more painful duty than to chronicle the death of M.Z. Goodell, which occurred yesterday afternoon at 2:15 o'clock, at his home in this city, at the age of 54 years, 7 months, 3 days. The funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock in the M. E. church, Rev. W. I. Casper, officiating. The deceased had been in declining health for nearly a year.

It is difficult to analyze a character such as was possessed by Mr. Goodell. He was generous to a fault; kindly of heart towards all; self-sacrificing to a noticeable degree; in honors preferring another; modest in his manner; retiring in disposition for one who had seen so much of public life; blessed with a happy disposition; speaking evil on no one; always ready with an excuse for the faults of others; possessing a strong love for his family; true and constant to his friends; endowed with ready speech which always commanded attention, and whose voice was always raised in behalf of the public interests. In many instances public considerations were given precedence to private interests, and personal ends were rarely considered where the community was interested. Indeed his fault was that in his zeal for the promotion and advancement of the public welfare his personal considerations were too often kept in the background.

Such were some of the most noticeable characteristics in the life of Mr. Goodell. While life was in one sense a struggle, such as was endured by the early pioneers who were "the advance guard of our western civilization," yet few found more real enjoyment than he in his intercourse with his fellow man. He was always a welcome guest, and his genial disposition, interesting conversation and ready wit was calculated to make his presence sought in every social or public gathering.

Mr. Goodell was closely identified with the history, growth and development of this portion of the state; indeed his influence was felt throughout of the state, and his ability and merits were not only recognized by the political party with which he affiliated by preference at home, but he was placed upon the democratic state ticket three years ago.

To him his home was the place he cherished most, surrounded by his family. It is there his presence will be missed, and the vacancy that nothing can fill will be most deeply felt. The sympathy of all goes out to the afflicted family.

M. Z. Goodall was born in Vermillion, Erie County, Ohio, November 6, 1837, where he resided with his parents until 1850, when in a company with a large train of emigrants the family crossed the plains to the then almost unknown regions of the Pacific coast. Arriving in Salt Lake City in the autumn of that year, the family spent the winter in that city, where the Mormons failing to convert them to the faith of that sect, began a system of persecutions which came nearly ending the existence of the gentiles, as they were called.

In the following year the first permanent home on the coast was made in Polk County, Oregon, where the family resided two years, coming to Grand Mound Prairie, in Lewis County, in 1853. At the breaking out of the Indian War, which threatened the very existence of the sparsely settled white communities, Mr. Goodell, then but a boy, entered the service, enlisting in the company of Capt. Hays, where he did active service for ten months. At the close of the war he returned to Lewis County, leased a farm and remained until 1860, when he removed to Chehalis County, to the farm still owned by the family, a few miles above Elma. In 1882 the family removed to Montesano where they still reside. Mr. Goodell at first embarked in the mill business, and afterwards engaged in real estate. He was united in marriage in 1858, to Miss Rebecca Byles. Eight children are the result of this union, all of whom reside in Montesano.

Mr. Goodell was prominent in public affairs, and was frequently honored with public office. He was twice elected sheriff and assessor, of Chehalis county, was elected a member of the territorial legislature for two terms when the county was controlled by the opposite political party, and was mayor of the city of Montesano for two terms. He was one of the leading figures in the democratic party, and was prominent in the state councils of that organization. He was a prominent candidate for lieutenant governor in the democratic convention three years ago, and would surely have been nominated had he pressed his claim. At the same convention he was named for state land commissioner.

The deceased was a member of the M. E. Church, to which he has belonged nearly twenty years. He was also a member of the Masonic order.

Obituary of Charles Newton Byles loaned by Mrs.
W. A. Dickey.

On Jan. 29, 1897 Charles Newton Byles passed away. He was the founder of the town of Montesano, Wash., and the city flag was lowered at half-mast, for her most distinguished citizen.

Interment was in Montesano Cemetery, in the family plot, where the two first-born boys, who died in infancy, are buried.

Charles Newton Byles, was native of the state Kentucky; born in Madisonville, Hopkins County, March 20, 1844, a son of Charles and Sarah Wright (Usher) Byles; the father was a native of N. C., born in 1809, and the mother was born in Virginia in 1811.

When the parents of Charles N. Byles emigrated to the west, leaving their home in the early spring, they took a boat at Henderson, on the Ohio River, went down to the Mississippi, up that stream to the Missouri, and thence up that river. Arriving at Independence, Kansas they met their son David, who had preceded them to that place. They remained in Independence until the spring of 1853, when they started to the Pacific Coast; their train was the first to go to Washington by way of Natchez Pass. They were compelled to fell trees, build the road in many places and ford many dangerous streams; they arrived at Olympia in the autumn. Charles Byles Sr. located on a farm on Grand Mound prairie, fourteen miles south of Olympia. Charles N. Byles passed his youth on his fathers frontier farm, and had only limited opportunities for gaining an education. He was energetic and ambitious, and at the age of 17 years began making his own way. He began by going to Idaho, where he spent one summer in mining gold; then he returned home and assisted on the farm until he had attained his majority. He then went to Tumwater, Wash. and secured Employment in the Tan-yard belonging to his uncle James Biles. Two years later he joined a surveying party that run the first preliminary line for the Northern Pacific railroad from western to eastern Wash. On his return from this expedition he took a position at Port Gamble in one of the large mills, as scaler and tally-man continuing there until 1863; when he left and went to Portland, Oregon and entered Portland Business College at which he graduated in 1869. It was not long after this event that he secured a position as Deputy U. S. Surveyor, and during this term of office he assisted his brother David in surveying three townships in what is now known as Pacific County.

In the fall of 1869 he taught school in a little schoolhouse which stood in the limits of the present site of Montesano. He was married June 23, 1870 to Elizabeth J. Medcalf.

After his marriage, Mr. Byles resided on his farm until July, 1871, when he secured a contract from the United States government as a surveyor. His wife acted for him as postmaster, and during the winter seasons he was engaged in teaching. In the spring of 1872 he went on an extended surveying expedition, returning in the fall to resume teaching. He purchased an additional 160 acres adjoining his farm and carried on agricultural pursuits until 1882.

In 1872 he was appointed ~~deputy~~ county auditor and served one year, at which time he was elected, county auditor; he held this office for four years, and was treasurer of the county Six years. For several years he occupied the responsible position of mayor of the city, and also served several years on the city council. He was especially interested in the schools and in the Methodist Church of Montesano. The first bank in Montesano was organized by Mr. Byles. In April, 1890 the Bank of Montesano grew out of the private bank, being organized with a capital of $75,000. Mr. Byles, who was one of the largest stockholders was elected President, and except for a few months in 1894, retained that position until his death. Mr. Byles was also a stockholder in the Montesano Water Company, and a large holder of real estate in Montesano and other parts of the country.

Mr. Byles leaves a wife and four children.

Recollections of a pioneer of 1853

The party with which my family crossed the plains in 1853, was composed of about 100 persons and was captained by my uncle, Mr. James Biles, and was the first wagon train to cross the Cascade Mountains. We had intended going to Willamette Valley but at Grand Round Valley in Oregon we met Nelson Sargent who persuaded us to change our plans and come on with him to the Puget Sound Country.

Mr. Ashur Sargent with his sons, Nelson and Wilson, had come to the territory and settled on Grand Mound Prairie a year or two before this.

They had sent for the rest of their family, Mrs. Sargent, two daughters, and a younger son, and Nelson had come on horse back over the Natches Pass to meet them.

I don't know when the Sargents joined our party but we were all in one train when we met Nelson. On his trip over the mountains he had left men working on the trail to make a wagon road, but they heard a story that the Sargent party had gone to Oregon and quit the work so that we had to take our train over an almost unbroken trail. Wilson Sargent met us somewhere in those mountains with a fresh supply of flour and bacon which we very much needed.

One of my first recollections of our beautiful and loved State of Washington was this journey over the mountains through the Natchez Pass. The women and children had to walk a good deal of the time as the teams were nearly worn out. Sometimes we would take an Indian trail, which here and there crossed our pretended road and thus saved several miles of walking. I can remember the time they had to let the wagons down the mountains by fastening ropes to the back axle of the wagon and to a tree at the top of the hill. We found that we did not have enough rope to do this and so to get more we killed an ox and cut the hide into strips. This did not prove to be enough and two more oxen were sacrificed before we had enough rope. All three oxen belonged to James Biles.

I clearly remember our arrival at our first real stopping place, and where we once more had a home. It was a little plank house on Hodgesdons Prairie, where the town of Tenino is now located. We arrived here on Oct. 20, 1853. The house was owned by a man by the name of Samuel Davenport. We stayed there until my father, the Rev. Charles Byles, located his donation claim and built a log house which we moved into the first day of January 1854. Our place was on Grand Mound Prairie with Scatter Creek running through it. It was a beautiful country all covered with high grass and a great many wild flowers.

There were no public schools then as now. That fall the Rev. Jothan Weeks Goodell opened in his home about three miles across the prairie from us, a school. My older brother and sister went on horse back to this school but I was too small to ride so far.

The next thing of importance was having to move into Fort Hennis for fear of the Indians (Oct. 1855). The fort was built of fir logs stood on end in a trench with girders on the top to hold them together. Bastions were built at the two opposite corners with portholes to shoot through.

Each family lived in a lean-to house of only one room built against the inner wall of the fort. The fort was about finished and some of the houses were up when father started one Monday morning for Olympia with a grist of wheat to be ground into flour and to get other supplies. He drove an ox team and although it was only twenty miles to Olympia the trip would take him three days, one day to go, one to get his grain ground and one to return. On Sunday a Mr. White had been killed by the Indians somewhere near Chambers Prairie, while he was returning from Church. This caused a great excitement but we heard nothing of it until the middle of the night on Monday when they hurried us into the fort, which was about three miles from our house.

When father returned he found his home deserted but he stopped and hid a number of things in the brush along the creek, some of which we found years later in clearing land. We stayed in the fort nine months before it was safe to return to the farm.

All the younger men were east of the mountains with the volunteers fighting the Indians and the older men and women had to work very hard finishing up the fort and getting settled. We children had a fine time while we were all there together. Among the people in the fort were the Yantises, Henneses, Mises, Frosts, Pullins, Baker, Himes, Sargents, Goodells, Jameses, Axtells, McCormics, Hills, Smiths, Laws, Youngs, three Byles families, and many more.

As soon as things settled down we had a school taught by a Mr. Hubbard, in one of the bastions. It was soon so crowded that we younger ones were given to a Mrs. James Smith. She taught us in her room. Later we had a Mr. Balch for a teacher, who seemed to think it was lots of fun to switch the childrens poor little legs.

One evening at dusk two drunken Indians came to the fort. We had a good deal of trouble getting rid of them, but we finally got them started off. The next morning one of them was found dead on the prairie about a mile from the fort. Another exciting incident of our life in the fort was the return of a wounded soldier. He had been shot in the neck by the Indians. His captain had told the company to seek cover and he was safely hid behind a log when he put his head up to shoot and was seen by an Indian whose bullet creased his neck just below the skull. This young soldier was Nathaniel Mills, and I am glad to add that he recovered from the wound.

After the war was over things settled down and went on about as they do in most new countries. We had preaching most every Sunday and three or four months of the year we had school. We had parties and picnics, Fourth of July celebrations and camp meetings. We often went to spend a day with our friends and we young folks had lots of fun horseback riding.

My wedding trip from Mound Prairie to Seattle was in September 1863. It was a good deal longer trip in those days than running up there in an automobile is now. We started in a two horse wagon with my brother Charley on Saturday morning to drive to Olympia. At Olympia we expected to take the old Eliza Anderson for Seattle on Monday morning, but on our arrival in Olympia we found that she was tied up for debt. The reports were very discouraging, she might sail in a day or two, or it might be a week.

We did not want to wait around in Olympia for a week so Monday morniig we took the stage for Steilacoom and at Steilacoom took a little sailing sloop that was carrying the Anderson's mail for Seattle. We arrived in Seattle at about two o'clock Tuesday morning and in about two hours the Eliza Anderson followed us in. Her captain had in some way raised the money to clear her debts.

James Biles

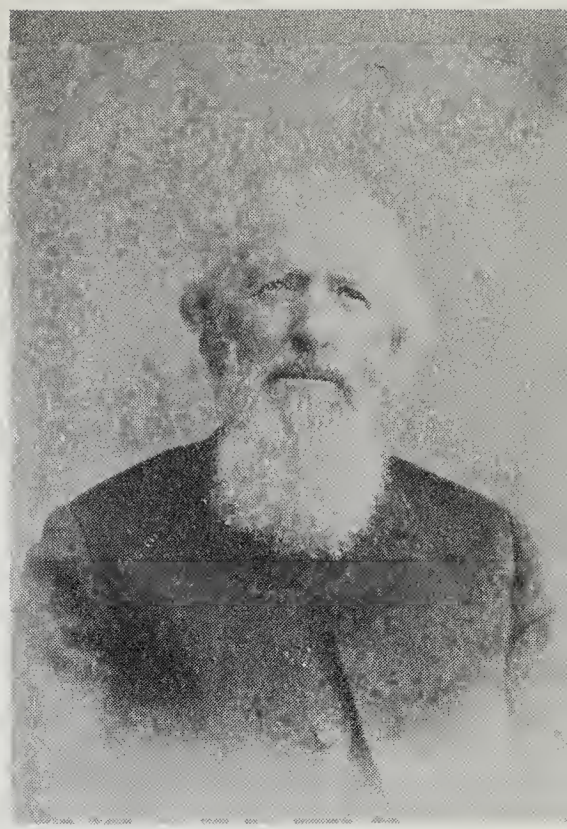

A CHRISTIAN HERO FALLEN

(loaned by Mrs. W. A. Dickey)

Dear Mr. Hines: We stand today under the pressure of a great sorrow that has happened to us, which, a short time since, seemed impossible to our love.

Brother James Biles, your friend and ours; is dead. The blow that has fallen so suddenly, so unexpectedly to many, with all the preparation that his family and more intimate friends had made for it, falls not alone upon Tumwater and vicinity, but upon all who know this good man. Others may perhaps write up his obituary, but I wish to offer my tribute of affection to this man that I so dearly loved.

James Biles was born in Hopkins County, Ky. March 3, 1812. Moved to Mississippi in the spring of 1836; was married to his now bereaved companion Jan. 19, 1837; in 1848 moved back to Kentucky; in 1853 crossed the plains in charge of the first party of emigrants that crossed the Natchez Pass. Since that time he has been a resident of Thurston County, Washington Territory. Truly "A prince and a great man has fallen in Israel." And the hearts of many beat sorrowfully at his grave today. The character of Father Biles was so full and round, so harmonious, the different elements of his nature so well balanced, he was so completely master of himself, that we were not fully aware of the sterling qualities of the man, until we attempt to analyze his character. Not long since the editor of the Advocate said that "perhaps the truest index and testimony of what any life has been is what is left as the product of that life after it is done." Measured by this rule his was a grand life. As a citizen, he was trusted by his fellow men at different periods of his life to fill places of responsibility and trust. In all of these offices to which he was elected by the people, he acquitted himself with honor. He was a public spirited man. There was no public enterprise that he thought would be a blessing to the people, that did not receive his financial aid, or words of encouragement, and generally both. In the broad, deep charity in his expressed judgment of other men, I have rarely known his equal. The man of whom Father Biles could not say some good thing must have been very low indeed.

His liberality knew no bounds. To him it was more blessed to give than to receive. He was a friend to the poor. Eternity alone will reveal the magnitude of the blessing he has been to the world along this line of Christian work. I think I have never known a man of whom it could more truthfully be said, "When the ear heard me, then it blessed me; and when the eye saw me, then it gave witness to me; because I delivered the poor that cried, and the fatherless, and him that had none to help him. The blessing of him that was ready to perish came unto me; and I caused the widow's heart to leap for joy. I was eyes to the blind, and feet to the lame. I was father to the poor and the cause of which I know not I searched out."

He was a friend to youth. His financial help and words of cheer have been an uplift to many a young man. His life was an inspiration to any worthy young man that came under his influence. I once heard him say to a vast audience; "Next to my love for my dear family, is the love for the children, " and no one who knew him doubted his word.

The secret of this useful life; Early in life he gave his heart, and consecrated his powers to God. He was for a time a member of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church, but in 1838 he joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, and was an honored member to the close of life. Most of the fifty years in the M. E. Church he was an official member. He has left us a record of forty-four years of work in the Sunday School. For twenty-five years he has been superintendent or assistant superintendent of the Sunday school in Tumwater. In that twenty-five years he was present at every election of officers of the school but one. In him the itinerant minister found a brother. His house was their home. The comfort of them and their families was his study. While Drs. Hines, Roberts, Devore, and a host of others were laying the foundations broad and deep on which future generations were to build for God, Father Biles was not idle. He was equally interested with them. He loved these men. He loved the church, gave freely of himself and his money to the cause of the Master. His was friendship that glowed in the heart like the sun. Those whom he once loved he could never forget. In a thoroughly and natural manly way he served his generation and honored God. He had the courage of his convictions. He was always ready to stand up on the side of truth and 'be counted', even when standing almost alone. As has been said of another, 'bad men know where to find him, and bad men never made the mistake of taking him for one of themselves.' His was a religion of cheerfulness. He had an experience, and there was nothing uncertain in his testimony to the power of Christ to souls. A short time since he was in our love feast and said; 'O, my friends, what would we do without this Savior? I hear men talk of substitutes for the religion of Christ, but I know nothing about any religion but that of the Savior; there is no other name given under the heavens nor among men whereby we

For some time his friends saw his strength was failing, but it was not until about the middle of January that he was confined to his room. A few days later the physician was called in and that the skill of the physician and the care of many kind friends could do, was done. After about ten days the physician pronounced the case hopeless.

His children having all arrived, he gave himself into the loving care of the family, and never was husband and father more lovingly cared for; every want was anticipated, and every request complied with that was possible. No sacrifice that could be made was too great, and every act was a labor of love. None who were acquainted with Father Biles need be told of his affection for his family. His last week on earth was one of mingled sadness and subdued joy. God graciously relieved from most of his bodily suffering. With the constant assurance that the Lord was with him, and with the ministrations of the loved ones of his family, he was content.

He said to me about a week before his departure: "I know in whom I believe; I haven't a doubt. God has not taken care of me these many years to leave me now. He don't do that way." After reviewing his life he said: "I have tried to do my duty in the fear of God."

On Sunday morning a few minutes before 8 o'clock I was summoned to his bed side. He said: "It is time to have family worship." I read to him the description of that home through which runs the River of Life. His face lit up with joy. A few minutes before 10 o'clock he asked me if I was going to have services at the church. On being told that we would not, he said: "Let's have it here, then." The fourteenth chapter of John was read. When we reached the words ---
"I will come again and receive you unto myself,"

- - he said: "Yes, He is coming! He is coming!" A little later he said: "His presence, and the prospect, O how precious." A little later he said: "I want to go, but I want God to be glorified to the last." At twenty minutes past 10 o'clock, A.M. Sunday, February 5th, 1888, surrounded by his family, with his companion that he loved so tenderly by his pillow, with the hand that he had given her more than half a century ago pressed in hers, he peacefully and quietly passed away. It was one of the grandest triumphs. I have ever witnessed.

On every side we feel our loss. Along all the lines of helpful activity we will miss this manifold worker. To the community at large, his decease will be regarded as little less than a public calamity. But a good man has gone to rest and to his reward; and with all our affection for him, and as much as we shall miss him. I think none who witnessed the closing scene would wish it otherwise. What he was to me and to my family, as father and friend, I can not undertake to tell. God has been exceedingly good to me. On every charge that I have served as pastor, there has been someone, or more, to whom I could look as to a father or master in Israel, and on whom I could lean; but for his man I had a feeling of reverence next to that which I felt for my father. We would bring our wealth of affection and lay it on his tomb, but we feel that no language of ours is sufficient for such an offering as is due from us to the memory of that good man. Their many friends will be glad to know that his aged companion is wonderfully sustained by divine grace, and looks forward with fond anticipation to the time when they shall meet to part no more.

Mrs. W. W. Smith Buried Saturday

Funeral services for Mrs. Catherine Elizabeth (Mrs. W.Wl.) Smith, 85, were held Saturday, Sept. 3, 1960, at 10:30 a. m. , at the First Presbyterian Church, Lewisville, with Rev. Alvin O. Rue Officiating. Interment was in Old Hall Cemetery, with Rhoton Funeral Home in charge. Pallbearers were : Eldon Whitmore, John H. Crawford, Jack Bonds, James Degan; Sam Salmon, John Watley, R. T. Kirkpatrick, and Conrad Luwe. Honorary pallbearers were the Elders of the Presbyterian Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Reveau Stewart and Mr. and Mrs. Nolan Denison sang, "Old Rugged Cross" and "Near to the Heart of God", accompanied by Mrs. Everett Denison. Mrs. John Howard Crawford furnished prelude and soft music on the organ.

Mrs. Smith, devoted Presbyterian and resident of Lewisville for 60 years, died in the Collin Memorial Hospital in McKinney, Thursday, Sept. 1, 1960. She had been under treatment in the Collin Memorial since being hospitalized there with a broken pelvis, July 16.

Mrs. Smith was a life-long resident of Denton County. She was born near Bartonville, the daughter of Sim B. McQuinn and Samantha Biles McQuinn, August 18, 1875. Her father was one of the men who met at Old Alden to organize the first Denton County Government. In 1892 she married Walter William Smith. Together with her husband and her young son, she moved to Lewisville in 1900 from Waketon, a small village between Bartonville and Lewisville, where the young couple had operated General Store. Mr. Smith was an active and prominent business man in Lewisville until the time of his death in 1938.

A loyal member of the First Presbyterian Church of Lewisville, Mrs. Smith served her church faithfully through the years. A strong supporter and active participant in all phases of the women's work, she also acted as Sunday School Teacher for various age groups at different times in her life and at the time of her death, was "Mother" of the Fellowship Class.

As a young woman, Mrs. Smith was a gifted amateur nurse and often volunteered her services where needed as trained nurses were not available at that time. As she grew older, she interested herself in the young people of the town, often acting as confident and informal counselor. She encouraged young people to develop their potential and to take advantage of every available educational opportunity. As one friend said during her recent illness, "A lot of good influence has gone out of her home."

One of her sayings was: "Let me live in a house by the side of the road and be a friend to man".

Notes

The "Old Stone House" was the home of Michael Braun (Brown) built in 1766 and restored in 1966 by Rowan County Museum Inc.. The family burial ground is 100 yards south of the structure. The family burial ground is very old and most of the stones can not be read. It is back in the woods and is surrounded by a low stone wall. The walls of the house are said to be three feet thick and port holes are in evidence from which the Indians were fought off when they would attack. It was perhaps one of the largest and best constructed houses in all of central North Carolina at the time it was built.

When I visited the "Old Stone House" in 1967 it was very impressive.

 He came to Rowan County, North Carolina with his parents between 1753 and 1757.
 As a young man in Rowan County he served in the Revolutionary War. He married in Rowan County 3-8-1783 Tabitha Mar-

They built up considerable land holdings in Rowan County. They moved in 1797 to Montgomery County, North became Stanly County. He gradually built up large land and slave holdings.

 While amassing a large plantation in Stanly County, he began to release some of his land in Rowan County in order to consolidate his holdings.
 I have many photostatic copies of

He volunteered as a private soldier under the following named Officers, Capt. Hugh Montgomery of Salisbury, Capt. James Craig, near neighbor, and General Rutherford, Commanding Officer and served as herein stated, first volunteer as a private soldier for three months under Capt. Hugh Montgomery the year not recollected and marched from Salisbury to Cross Creek, now Fayetteville, supposed to be one hundred and ten miles against the Tories that was supposed to be embodied at that place. The day previous to their arrival a commander of a company from another Quarter whose name is not recollected arrived there and faught the Tories below Cross Creek at a place called Cambleton on Cape Fear River or near that and beat the Tories. his Capt. with his men continued there some time, the length of time not recollected, he then marched to Salisbury and after was discharged by Capt. Hugh Montgomery. He then Volunteered as a private soldier for three months under Capt. James Craig and General Rutherford the day, month or year not recollected. He was marched from Salisbury against the Valley Towns of the Cherokee Nations of Indians cross the mountains supposed to be two hundred and fifty miles. He was marched accross the head of the Catawba River to the foot of the Swanano Gap there halted one day and night for the South Regiment with a Company of Warriors from the Catawba Nation of Indeans that was to meet General Rutherford at that time and place the names of the South Officers not recollected. General Rutherford not hearing from the South

Regiment left the baggage with a guard and marched cross the Swanano Gap for the Valley Towns on the way burned and destroyed two small towns and everything was supposed to be of use to the Indians and he marched on to the Valley Towns. The names of the streams of water is not particularly recollected. When he arrived at the Valley Towns there was orders given to destroy everything supposed to be of use to the Indians. Burned all houses cut down the corn carried it to the river and cast in. There was no fighting except with the spies who killed and took seventeen Indians and two white men as well as he recollects. At the lower end of the Valley Towns met the South regiment with the Catawa Company of Warriors. They informed General Rutherford of their arrival at the place appointed to meet in the evening of the same day he left, saw the baggage and guard all safe and on the next morning marched for the Valley Towns, on their way had a severe fight with the Indians and beat them the number killed and wounded not recollected. From there marched against the Tories supposed to be embodied at Ramsower's mill, stated to be about eleven hundred men as well as recollected. Col. One or two hours after the Battle, General

Rutherford marched his men on the ground, the number killed and wounded not recollected. His time of service expired, he was there discharged by Capt. It was stated that he was a continental Officer with a troop of Regulars Continued some time there, the time not recollected, his time of service expired was discharged by Capt. Craig and returned home. He then was employed for three months with his own wagon and team in the service of the United States and went himself one trip high up in the state of Virginia and brought a load of salt from where it was deposited, for the use of the army in Salisbury. He then hired a man to go with his team as wagon driver. He then turned out with a scouting party, he states such parties was common where he resided with those that were true to their country. He served as a Second Lieut. in the Confederate Army with Company K., 28th Inf. Regt. He and my grandfather William Alexander Christopher Biles enlisted 9-7-1861. They served in the same outfit and were undoubtedly very close friends. They were first cousins. The Lay Book of Isaac's General Store is deposited in the Register of Deeds Office in Albemarle, N. C.. My grandfather also ran a general store in Missouri.

Page 444 shows the interior and exterior of the Randle Methodist Church as it appeared in 1967.

Alexander "Sandy" Biles b. 3-25-1787 in Rowan County, N. C. and moved at the age of Six to Montgomery County which was later subdivided and became Stanly County. d. 4-15-1780 and is buried in the Randle Methodist Church yard near Norwood, N.C. His head stone is of native slate and is hand carved and although nearly one hundred years old was still easily read in the summer of 1967. The stone was broken off at the base. I redug the hole and replaced the stone which made it somewhat shorter than the original. See the preceeding picture pages. A large C. W. cross was on his grave. It could be there by mistake for he would have been very old to have served in the C. W.. It is known that he supported the Confederate cause with all the force at his command.

Randle Methodist Church is the oldest church of any denomination in the area and was visited by the most famous circuit riders and Bishops of the early days of N. C.. The early visitors included several visits from Bishop Asbury.

Most of the old church cemeteries of the area have an area where the slaves were buried. In most instances the churches had both black and white members. The slaves of the area seem to have been well treated and accepted as members of the family. Alexander's son, W. A. C. Biles, who was my grandfather used to like to tell that when he went hunting, a negro boy would saddle his horse and clean his gun. He often told of the negro boy then going with him on the hunt and what fun they would have. He also said that when the slaves were freed after the great war that his father's slaves begged to remain with him as though the war had not freed them. However, they were told that they were welcome to remain in their homes but they were free and no longer bound to him Alexander m. ca. 1810 Dovey or Dovie Taylor. She had a brother "Hut" Taylor who lived to be 116. My grandfather used to tell us that we were related to Zackery Taylor.

The 1810 Census shows Alexander and Dovey with no children. The 1840 census show six boys and six girls. My father stated in a letter in 1937 that there were nine boys and nine girls.

The Civil War seemed to have dealt with Alexander very hard who had considerable holdings in both land and slaves. It scattered most of his children to other areas where opportunity to rebuild was greater.

Alexander was a very kind hearted man with an air of southern hospitality about him. He was possessed with a high temper. Although, he was rather rebellious to his father, he was a family man who loved and cherished his position in life and the dignity which had been a part of his heritage. He reared several of his sons to be plantation overseers. Grandfather used to tell of the kindness with which he dealt with his slaves and neighbors.

Letter from Millie Linzy of, Rupert, Idaho 1-20-1966

My grandfather, Thomas Biles, married a Cherokee Indian woman named Millie Honeysuckle. I was named after her. She could have had the name of Caroline as either a first or middle name. I don't know their birthdates or death dates, but grandpa was buried in Stone County on his old homestead place. Grandma is buried in the Kirbyville, Mo. Cemetery. Some of the folks said there was a thorn tree grew on his grave cause he was so mean. Well, I know he was pretty mean for he used to live with my mother and father and I had to keep the flies off him while he slept on the porch and if we let one get on him he would whack us with his cane.

My father made the run into Oklahoma when I was 9 years old. I was along. My brother Billie, 7, and I got typhoid fever on the way.

Grandfather Biles had the following children that I know of - Hut who d. at about 17, Thomas, Bill, Tishia who married a man named Crowell, Dovie who married a man named Oliver, Prissy married a Turner. I do not remember a George, Nettels, or Marsha but they had a large family and I cannot remember all of them.

Well, I wish you folks could come to see me. I live right in town and have two lots, have a big garden and fruit trees and berries. I have a fresh water system for my garden. Wish you could see the country it is beautiful in summer but is pretty cold right now. Will close, write when you can.

Love and Luck to all,

Millie Linzy

b. in Charlotte, N. C. d. 3-29-1942.
Etta was a very kind and intelligent woman. She was well educated. After Etta's death Sidney m/2 Elsie Jones of Lawton, Oklahoma. Elsie made a nice home for Sidney. They were in comfortable circumstance. Sidney was a very successful business man and stock raiser in Lawton, Oklahoma.
He was the largest producer of swine west of the Mississippi River and ran a large herd of cattle as well.
He also owned several businesses in Lawton.

Sidney was a tall rather thin man and a very down-to-earth person.
I never saw Sidney in anything but Khakis. He always appeared to have all the time in the world to stop and visit when in reality he covered a lot of ground in a hurry. I like to think of Sidney in this way. My wife and I were visiting in his home

when my daughter Kay was but a baby. He had been squirrel hunting and had a tremendous platter of squirrel cooked for dinner. He took Kay on his lap and fed her squirrel until her mother and I were very worried, since we had never fed her anything but baby food. Sidney said not to worry about her, squirrel never hurt anybody. He must have been right.

I visited in Sidney's home at another time when he had a full grown Mountain Lion in his front room much as you might have a house cat. He would let the Lion out the screen door into the front yard as you might let your cat out. When ask about it, he said when he took it places with him he used a small leash to keep from frightening people. He caught the Lion in one of his many hunting trips. He liked bear hunting and always had many bear skin rugs on his floor. Sidney was a very kind and generous man and I loved him for what he was.

was my grandfather, b. 3-31-1835 in Stanly County, North Carolina d.
2-11-1918 in Lincoln County, Oklahoma buried in Bethel Cemetery in Lincoln County, Okla. near the graves of two of his sons - Samuel Strother Biles and my father George Hudson Thomas Biles and many other members of the family. He married the highly cultured and educated Mary Catherine Strother of Stafford County, Virginia. They were married at Front Royal, Virginia 6-20-1863 at which time he was in the service of the Confederate Army. She was working in the war office of the Confederacy. A copy of their marriage license may be obtained from the Court Clerk's office in Warren County, Va.

The Strother family is among the earliest and most highly respected families of Virginia and whose ancestry can be traced back in direct lineage to the twelfth century and before. Mary Catherine Strother b.
12-1-1838 d. ca. 1917 daughter of John and Eliza Ann Strother. Eliza Ann b. 10-28-1806 d. 2-5-1865. She was John's second wife.

W. A. C. Biles joined the Confederate Army 9-7-1861 and served in Company K. of the 28th Infantry Regt.

He was wounded three times seriously during the war. The last time he was left on the battlefield at Gettysburg for dead. He was shot through the head and then had his stomach ripped open with a bayonet.

His official war records show that a young Yankee doctor asked to see if he could do anything with what seemed a hopeless case. He wore a silver plate in his head until his death. He was tough and did not give up easily. On one occasion according to his war record he turned up A. W. O. L. from the hospital and the next day he reported back into his old company and said he was ready for duty. He listed his home as Norwood, North Carolina. For some time after his release he was recuperating from his war wounds. He had fought hard and gallantly for the way of life he had once known but he had lost. After returning to his beloved land of N. C. he was faced with the reality of a new and different life. The Carpetbaggers came and taxes became unbearable as well as the fact there were no longer slaves which could be used to operate a plantation. He was tall and thin and was very erect in his posture until his death. He carried himself very proudly and was often heard to say "The Biles stock, Suh, was not made of rags". He loved to tell the stories of his boyhood when he would hunt in the thickets of his beloved N. C. plantation home. He told on one occasion when, while fighting with General Robert E. Lee that the General led his own horse across a creek holding his gun high with a wounded soldier in the saddle. He told another story of the shortage of food during the great struggle. Men he called peanut peddlers would take advantage of the hunger and sell peanuts to the troops.

JOHN A. M. BILES

ANNA M. BILES

Faced with the reality that the way of life he had known was gone forever, he decided to go to Stone and Taney Counties in Missouri where his brother Thomas had gone before him. Here he put in a general store and operated it for a number of years. He was not a successful business man. His heart was too kind and his nature too generous. Neither he nor his wife were too good as managers, both having been reared with slave labor as a way of life. She wished to spend her endeavors with the gentler more cultural ways of life and he was a misplaced southerner. He attempted to farm for many years.

The land was not productive and although he worked hard he was not what would be considered a successful farmer. In his later years when he had come to make his home with my parents he would often get double wages for chopping cotton in the community because he could chop more than twice as much as any one else. This, I am sure, came from his boyhood when he would lead the slaves in the field.

14291 John A. M. Biles b. 11-8-1865 probably in Arlington, Va. d. after 1926 probably in Calif.. I have a letter he wrote from Calif. in 1926. He was a teacher. He taught in Missouri, Oklahoma, New Mexico, and Arizona. He graduated from college at the age of 60. When asked about going back to college at his advanced age he made the remark that he was going to be 60 whether he was in or out of college and it was his life ambition to be a college graduate.

John loved to take part in wrestling and fighting which were about the only forms of sporting events.

one of his students told of seeing him whip three men at one time in a fist fight. He never married

Lee was a colorful person. When he was but a boy he purchased a team of huskies and all the paraphernalia which would go with an explorer of the far north, along with a silent movie showing a trip through the frozen waste lands of Alaska. He gave himself a long title and traveled about the country lecturing to literary societies about his adventures in the far north. A booking agent would travel ahead of him and keep him booked. He was well read and could convince most that black was white.
He was at one time a heavy weight prize fighter. He often dabbled in politics and was a long time nurseryman in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma.

He once drove a worn out Nash car to the factory and convinced the President of the Nash Automobile Co. that the car should be completely redone and at no expense to himself.

SCATTERING FLOWERS

Do you know another Altus-sized town anywhere that feeds the body, mind and soul of its juveniles the kind of character-building that our kids are given through the summer playground program?

Well, one of the secrets of this wholesome vacation play that Altus offered is that other towns do not have a Bryan W. Biles.

Thanks to Biles and his assistants, Bobby Hunt and Ann Thaggard, the Elks Culb, the Chamber of Commerce, and the City Council, our juniors have had a glorious time getting the know how of science and health the easy way down at the 'ol swimmin' hole.

MR. & MRS. BRYAN W. BILES

BRYAN OFFERS MARY A HOME

Up to a maximum of 160 children, the Altus youngsters played ball, learned to swim and to play together in harmony.

These facts explain why Altus has few cases of juvenile delinquency.

The first rule the youngsters learn is simple. They can fool neither Biles nor God; they must be genuine, love people, abhor laziness and must play fair to succeed in his school. The rules he teaches he lives before them, for Biles always has time, energy, friendship and a foolproof formula for joyful living.

He lifts our children above the common little bread and butter rules of sportsmanship, and the rewards for doing the right things. This leader of children has strength to offer them because his faith in them is undaunted. Difficult people never get 'under his hide', he leans backward only for the underprivileged child or handicapped. He can be so tough with the squad; so tender with the afflicted or bereaved; so firm about the things that are right; so jovial with the teen-agers down at the drug store; so nervous when the score is tied and there is a chance to lose the game.

Orchids to Coach Biles and his Altus kids for the way they play the game.

Life Membership in the Oklahoma Congress of Parents and Teachers was voted Bryan Biles, Washington Elementary Principal, by the P. T. A. unit of his school. Mrs. L. D. Whitlock, President, presents the pin while Biles holds the special certificate. Jimmy Biles, son of the veteran elementary administrator, watches the proceedings. Young Biles is currently completing a practice teaching assignment at Falcon School here, and will receive a degree in elementary education in January from Southwestern State.

WASHINGTON ELEMENTARY P. T. A. SAYS 'THANKS' TO BRYAN BILES

How can you say 'thank you' to a man who has spent the major portion of his life working with Altus School children?

Washington Elementary School P. T. A. members decided this fall to show their appreciation to Bryan Biles, school principal, by giving him life membership in Oklahoma Congress of Parents and Teachers, and a life-membership pin.

Announcement of the honor came during the recent state convention of the P. T. A. in Oklahoma City and Biles was introduced to the banquet group.

This week the pin and special certificate arrived, and were presented by Mrs. L. D. Whitlock, P. T. A. president, and a Washington School patron for the past 14 years. Formal presentation will be made at the January meeting of the Washington unit.

It was the second tribute Biles received this month. During The Thanksgiving holidays his two sons, Dean of Webb City, Mo., and Jimmy, a senior at Southwestern State, told him they had decided to be elementary teachers because "You have made us realize how important it is to work with young people during their formative years, and how much enjoyment can be derived from it".

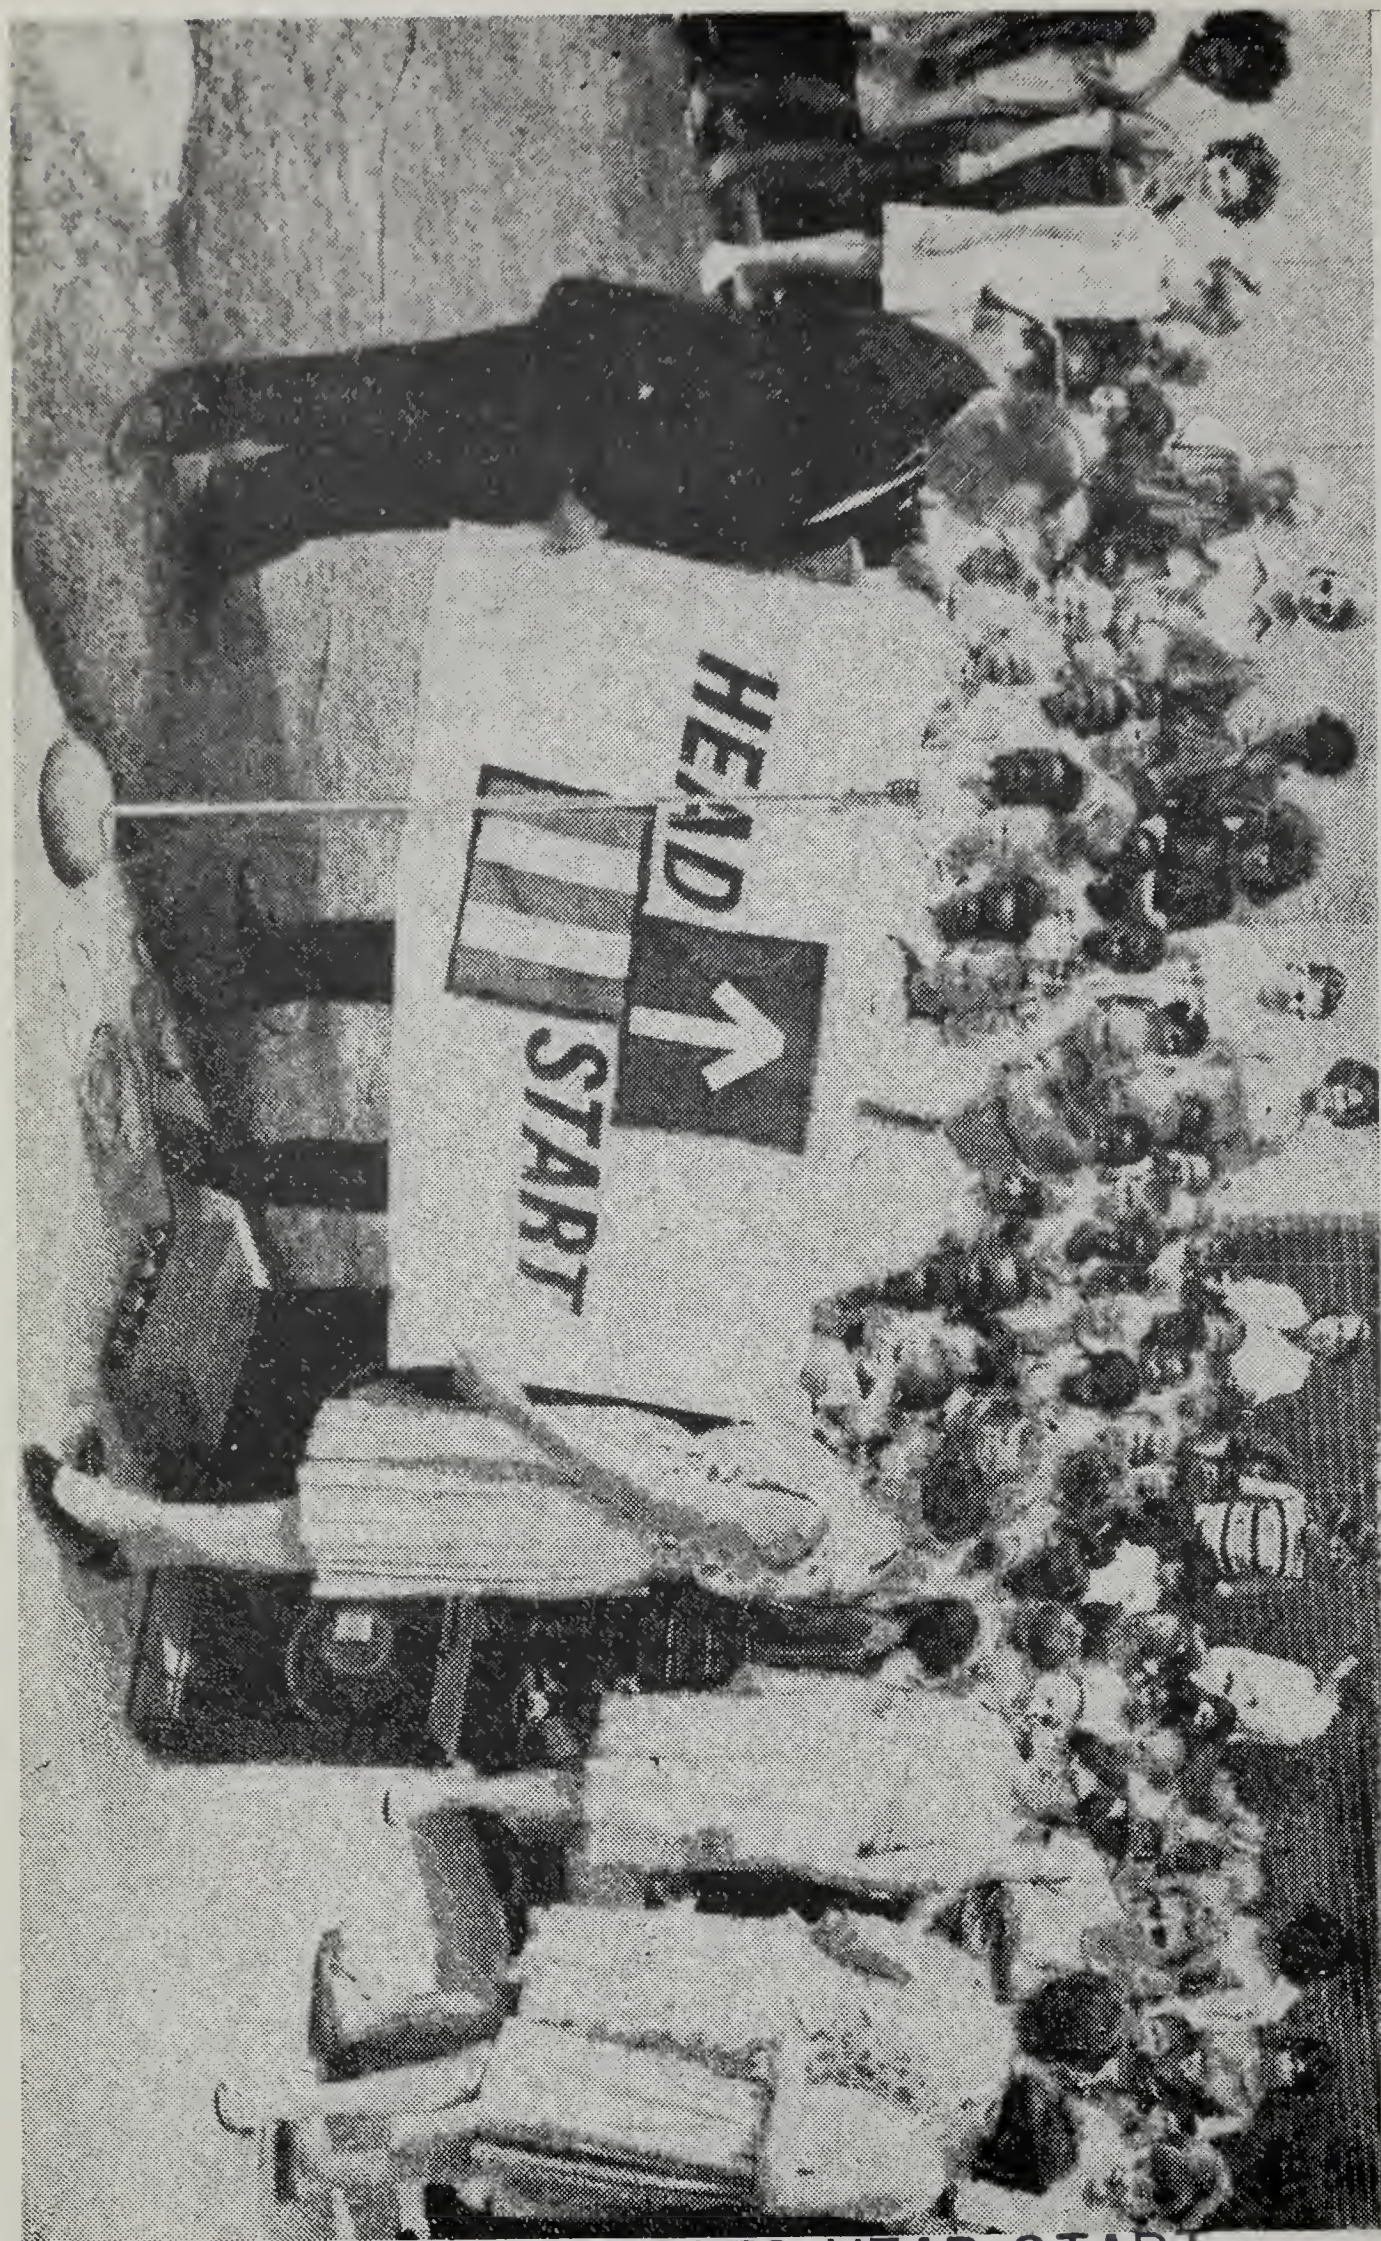

Dean, who graduated two years ago from Northeastern State College at Tahlequah, already is in his second year as principal of Eugene Field Elementary in Webb City, Missouri.

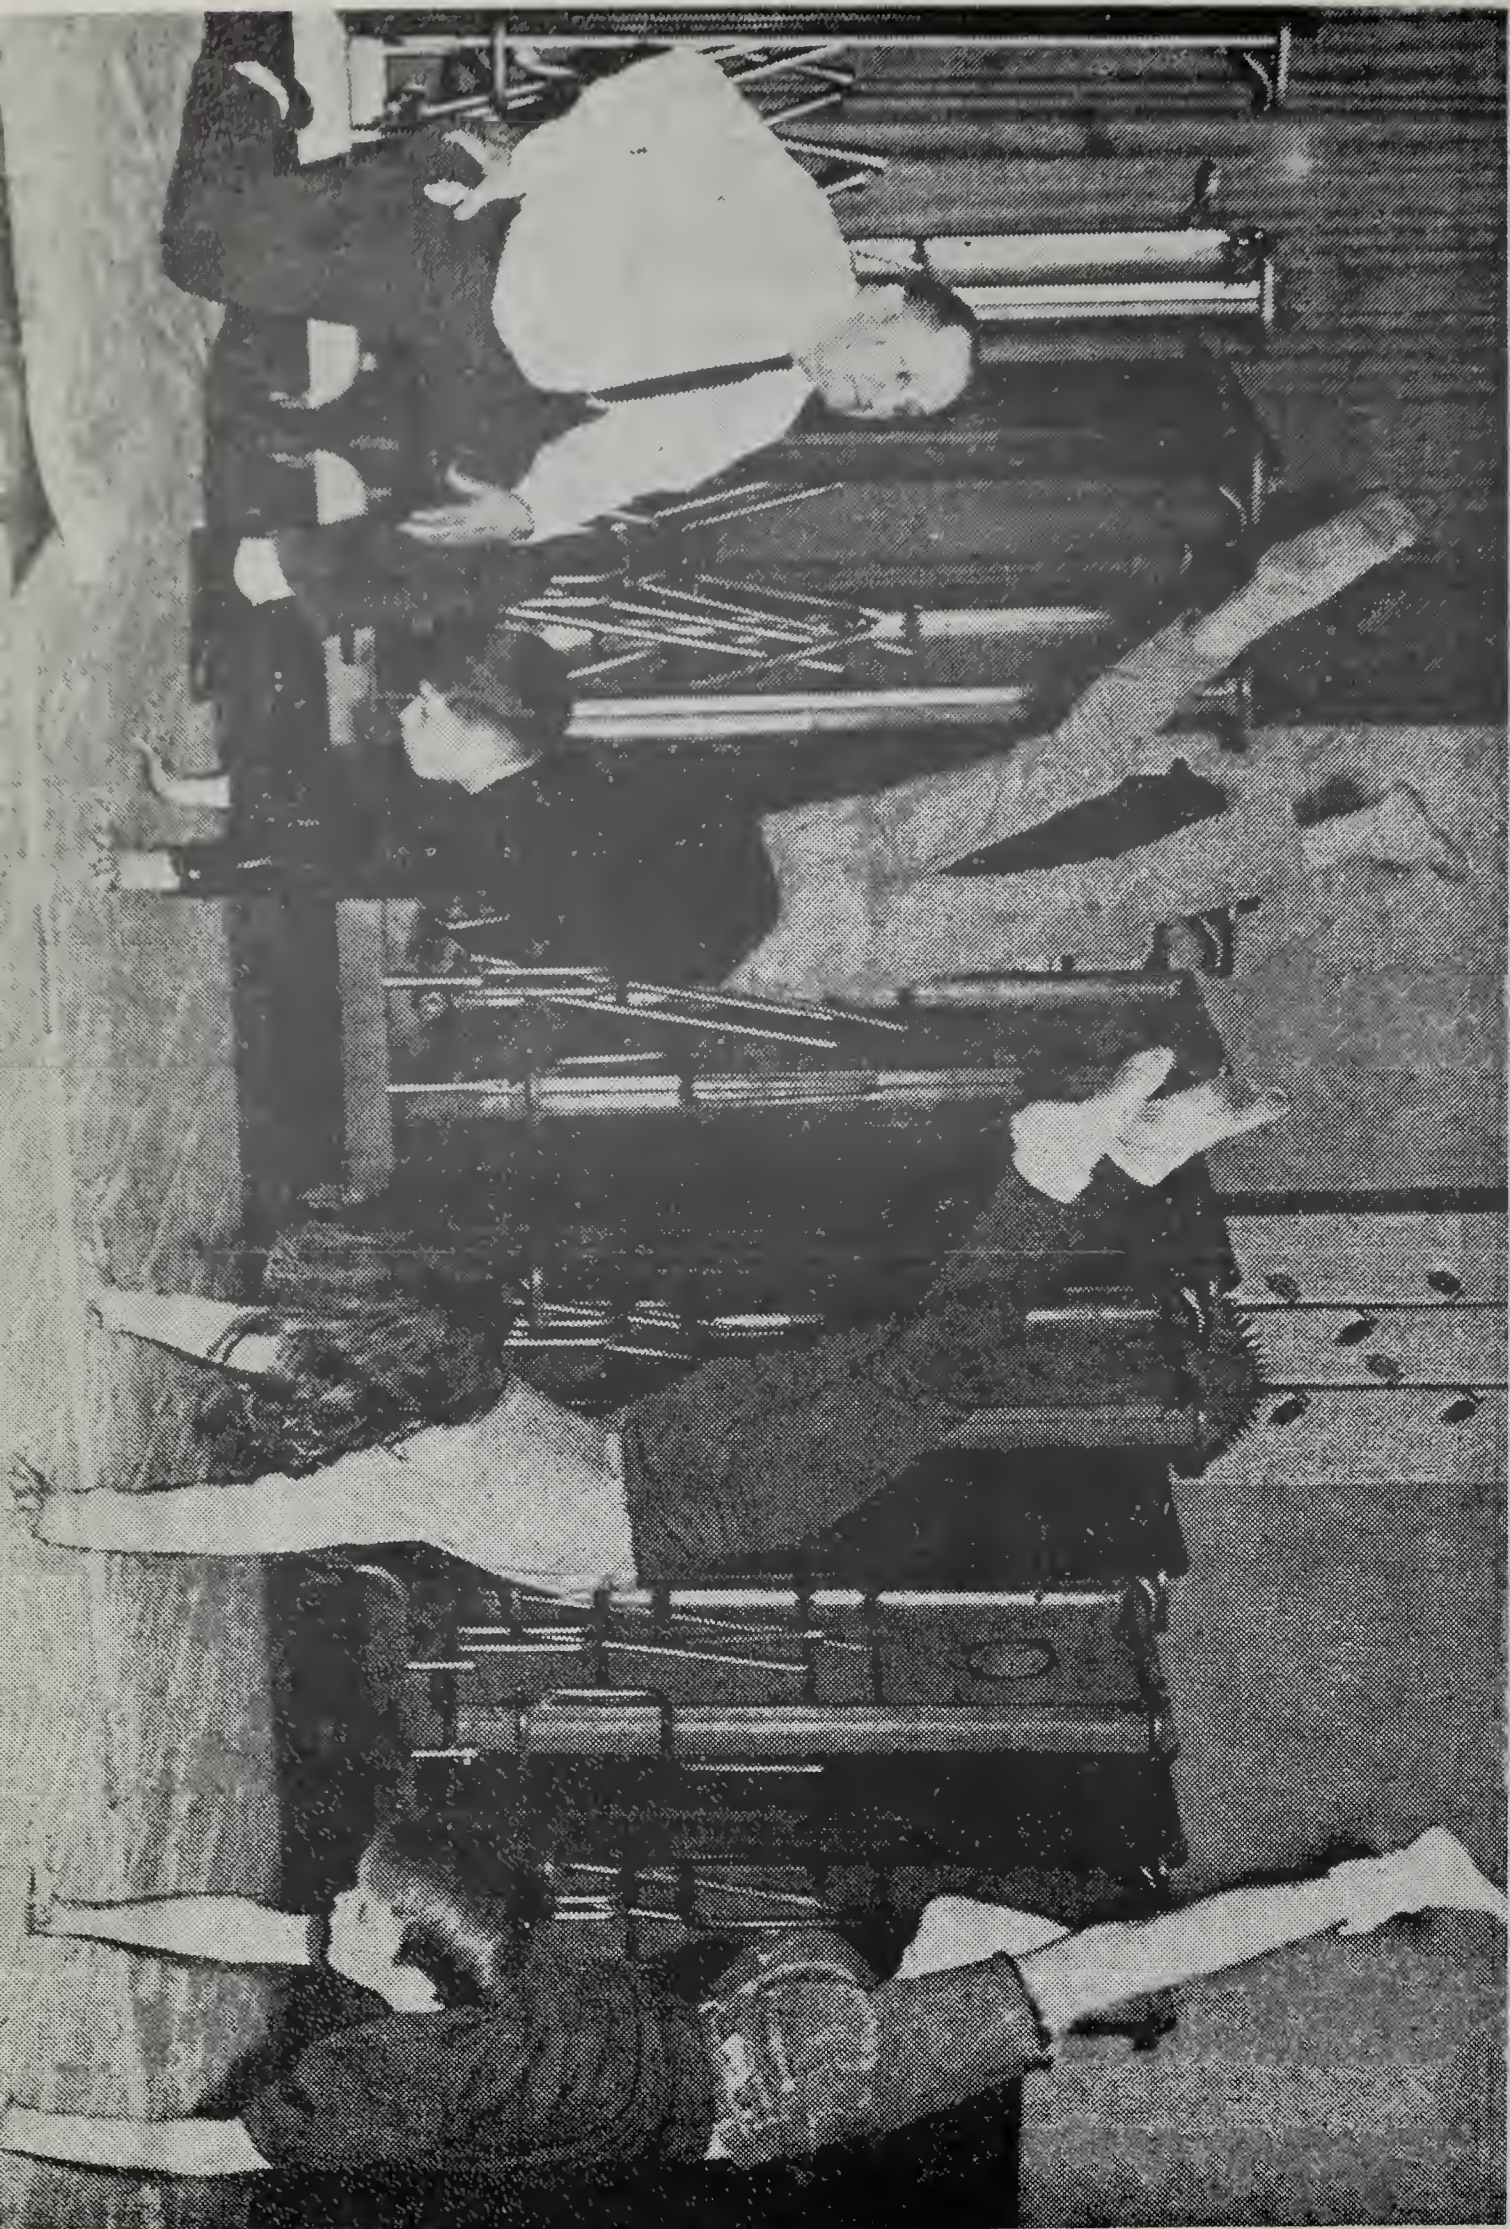

BRYAN HONORED BY P. T. A.

JAMES PHILIP BILES

MRS. L. D. WHITLOCK

BRYAN TEACHES TUMBLING

Jimmy began work as a practice teacher at Falcon Elementary here two weeks ago. He will receive his degree in elementary education with a major in mathematics in January.

Biles has been a member of the Altus Schools faculty for 25 years. It was in commemoration of this anniversary that the award was voted, Mrs. Whitlock said. Nineteen of his years here have been as Washington principal. He was athletic coach and classroom teacher at Central Junior High for seven years.

Recognition of his leadership as an elementary administrator has come repeatedly from fellow schoolmen and women. He has been president of the Southwest District Elementary Principals Association twice, and has had two terms as secretary of the Oklahoma Department of Elementary Principals, serving also as a member of the executive board of the state and of the regional association.

Recently he was the Oklahoma Representative to the National Elementary Principals, a department of the National Education Association.

In addition, he has served at various times on special committees of the O. E. A. and of the Principals organizations, including four years on the State Safety Commission.

Biles is one of the area leaders in physical fitness programs, and each year has various teams, composed of both boys and girls, who perform for various groups and functions. Out-of-town schools sometimes send observers to his program.

He continues to take an active interest also in elementary football, and the three Whitlock sons who have played on his teams are typical of the long time interest he has had in the sport. Lowell Whitlock is a college senior, Mark a freshman, and fifth-grader David Whitlock was a first String halfback on the Wahington team this year . This is Mrs. Whitlock's second time to be Washington president, and she also is a past president of Altus P. T. A. Council.

Biggest annual P. T. A. event of the year is scheduled for March when Washington holds its annual fund-raising chicken dinner. Last year 1771 persons were served with almost no delay in a period of three hours. Biles is arrangements chairman.

When school ends each year Biles begins work immediately in pre-school education. He has been Director of Altus "Head Start" program for the past three summers. Head Start classes meet at Washington school.

He holds both bachelor's and Master's degrees from the University of Oklahoma and Oklahoma State University in educational administration. His post master's work has been in the new pre-school educational fields.

145 William D. Biles - very little is known about William except that he d.
prior to his father and that all his children lived in a western state.
They were to share in the estate but none of Thomas' slaves were to go west.
The names are not mentioned in the will but a lengthy examination of the court records are found to reveal two names Jefferson and Tabitha Biles, who were not of age and were signed for by the executors. These could be children of William. Tabitha Biles
dau. of Francis Biles, who wa also deceased, is accounted for and therefore not the Tabitha unaccounted for in the court proceendings. More could be found from further examination of the records.

It is not completely certain the middle initial of Wm. was D. because the records are hand written and diff.

Wheeler's History of North Carolina Vol. 11, page 199;; "Two brothers, John Crowell and Edward Crowell came to North Carolina and settled in Halifax. They emigrated from Woodbridge, New Jersey. They are originally from England; and they or their ancestors are called Cromwell.

In the year 1674, says the Annalist of Philadelphia, two brothers of Oliver Cromwell left England for America and settled in New Jersey. They fled from England, from the political storms that impended over the name and house of the late Protector.

While on the voyage, fearing that persecution would follow from the adherents of Charles II, then on the English throne, they resolved to change the name. This was done with solemn ceremony, and by writing their name each on paper and each cutting from the paper the M and casting it in the sea.

The family pedigree on vellum, recording these facts, was with the family in North Carolina, in an ornamental chest with other valuables, when by a party of Tarleton's Legion, in 1781, this chest was seized and taken off. These facts are undoubted. The record was again made up from the recollections of the family, and is still preserved among them. From one of them, these interesting and curious facts are derived.

John Crowell, who emigrated from New Jersey to Halifax, married a Miss Lewis. He died early leaving several children. One of them married Miss Barnes, a celebrated beauty. One of the daughters married a Mumford, whose daughter was the wife of Hon. Willie Jones.

Edward Crowell married Miss Rayburn, aunt to Gov. Rayburn of Georgia; by whom he had several children. His eldest son Samuel married Miss Bradford.

Colonel John Crowell, late member of Congress from Georgia and Indian Agent was a son of Edward.

Thomas Biles b. 6-14-1800 d. 2-7-1882
m. Elizabeth Sides b. 3-4-1804 d. 3-19-1882. They are bur. in the Bapt.
Church Cem. at Badin, N. C.. Elizabeth appears to be the daughter of Leonard and Catherine Sides, who are also bur.
in the same church yard.

From the will of Thomas Biles b.
1752 it appears that Thomas was the favorite of his father and was named along with his brother Daniel as executors of the will.

Thomas Biles b. 1800 was the person for whom Bilesville was named. The name was changed about 1893 to New London, N. C.. His house still stands in New London and is currently occupied and in good repair. The occupants, I understand plan to restore it and refurnish it to the era. The house is shown as it appeared in the summer of 1967. My wife, Mary and sons James
James and Chris are shown below in what appears to have been a kitchen located back and left of the house.

SYNOPSIS OF THE BILES FAMILY

Especially written for descendants of

Bryan Wilson Biles

The history of the Biles family has always been one of pioneering and building. It has never been the nature of the family to be satisfied with the status quo, but rather to migrate where the opportunity for growth, expansion and building are present.

They dare to be individuals when it is more popular to melt into the crowd and be a follower. It has never been necessary to seek the security of the thinking of the masses. We have always stood to be counted in the face of ridicule and other subterfuge when a matter of principle is at stake.

The strength of character and dominant will power has and I hope always will be a part of the nature of our clan. We have dared to pioneer when others sought the security of retreat.

This spirit of great will-power and determination has been exemplified all the way from William and Charles who came to America in 1679 and even before.

Alexander Biles, the father of the Biles boys who came to America dared to defy the King and church when it was opposed to his honest beliefs. He was thrown into prison when he openly criticized the minister of the state church of England. It was not that he wished to be different but that he stood with strength for his convictions in spite of all opposition.

His son William was a powerful figure in early America and many times dared to defy the powers of the day. He was a member of the Assembly, and as such, spoke out many times when he felt the people being oppressed. On one occasion he spoke of the Governor, "He is but a boy; he is not fit to be our governor. We'll kick him out; we'll kick him out".

When Governor Evans asked the House to purge itself of the contagion of the said pernicious member by expelling him, the House told him plainly "Ye manner of said proceedings against William Biles has been very offensive to this House".

They added "We do not find the grounds of this message (Especially considering methods that have taken place) to be sufficient to Induce us to Expel the said William Biles and from this House". When this address was read in Council "and the Rudeness as well as the absurdity of its Contents Considered, It was the unanimous opinion of the Board that it would be to no purpose to spend any longer time Confering with the present Hcuse", and the Assembly was forthwith dismissed "till the country might have an opportunity of a new Choice".

Benjamin Franklin says of Governor John Evans: "So unpcular was he, that an unanimous Vote of Thanks to the Proprietary was passed on his being removed, almost before his Face, for he was still a Resident amongst them". In all fairness it should be said that Benjamin Franklin was a friend of the Biles family. It remains, however a matter of record that he was a very unpopular Governor and was removed forthright.

William Biles was returned to the Assembly BY A VOTE OF THE PEOPLE as were most of the rest of the Assembly. See Votes of Assembly and Colonial Records, which contain the proceedings in full. Votes of the Assembly: Vol. 1, pt. 2, pp. 43-48; Colonial Records, Vol. II, pp. 205-209.

William Biles, however, while serving in the Assembly with many of his closest friends and associates who represented the Proprietors was the bitterest political enemy of a great number of them. He, however, had such great respect from them that they refused to oust him from the Assembly when asked to do so by the Governor.

From "William Biles" by Miles White: "In 1704 the animosity between the Proprietary's adherents and his opponents, which had long been an undercurrent in politics, broke forth with great violence, and the country became distinctly divided into two political parties, The Proprietary or Aristocratic and the Popular or Democratic, the former under the leadership of Logan and the latter under that of David Lloyd. William Biles belonged to the latter, While some of his neighbors and personal friends belonged to the former, and were his bitter political enemies ".

It was from the seeds that William Biles and others sowed that eventually brought about the overthrow of the English government in America and a democracy to be formed. This is historical fact which can be adequately proved by a study of the details of his activities. However, that is not the purpose of this story.

Thomas Biles who came to Rowan County, N. C. prior to Oct. 20, 1757 took an active interest in, and helped to build the stability of the new growth of pioneer life in early N. C.. At least three of his sons were active in the Revolutionary War. I have no reason to believe that his other three sons were not equally active in pursuit of the War of the Revolution. No records at the time were kept and it is only through pension records, etc. that proof of service can be adequately established. Most of the veterans of the Revolution were dead before pensions were granted, 1832. The old nester, Thomas Biles, himself was a "Patriot" furnishing salt and other material to the troops.

Thomas Biles settled in the Jersey settlement five miles above Salisbury, N. C. on the bank of the Yadkin River. "Biles Bridge" was built across the Yadkin at the point where he settled. Historians have written that here the soil was exceedingly fertile on both sides of the Yadkin, abounding in rank grass and prodigiously large trees, and for plenty of fish, fowl and venison is inferior to no part of the northern continent.

It was here the Biles developed their love to hunt and developed great pride in their marksmanship. One of their neighbors was Daniel Boone, who like the Biles, came from Pa. and later migrated to Kentucky and then on to Missouri.

The area of Salisbury district of North Carolina was indeed the hot bed of defiance to England. It was near here the controversial Mechlenberg papers were signed and independence was declared from England long before the Declaration of Independence.

In 1797 Thomas Biles Jr. b. 1752 moved to Montgomery County, N. C. which later became Stanly County. He already had large land holdings in Rowan County but it was here in Stanly County, N. C. that he hoped to carve out an empire of his own. He ruled his family with an iron hand and attempted to build up large land and slavery holdings which would be a part of the Biles family forever. If this he might have succeeded very well had not the Civil War been a great factor in the fortunes of the family.

Just as many of the family of the past had rebelled against the tyranny of oppressive government so it was that Isaac and Alexander showed rebellion to their father, Thomas' desires to control and dominate his sons in building an empire.

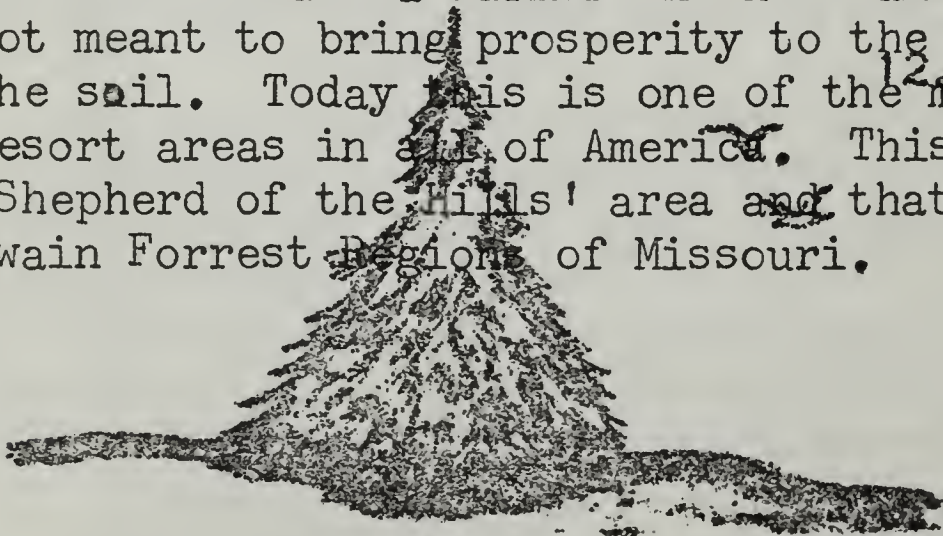

While Thomas, and to some degree, Daniel, brothers of Isaac and Alexander had a tendency to remain in the fold, for they were executors of the estate and finally dominated the lands and wealth massed by their father, Thomas, until the Civil War ravaged and raped the South by political carpetbaggers and other methods.

Alexander and Isaac, while typifying the Chivalry and hospitality of the old south, would have been highly successful themselves in building their own plantations into rather formidable holdings, but the Civil War and its political oppression destroyed their holdings and dispersed their families to areas of greater opportunities to build.

William Alexander Christopher Biles, my grandfather, son of Alexander and Dovie (Taylor) Biles followed his older brother Thomas R. Biles to Missouri. W. A. C. Biles was thrice wounded in the Civil War before he was left for dead on the battlefield at Gettysburg. Once he was hospitalized for wounds and became unhappy for being held in the hospital and went A. W. O. L.. The next day he showed up at his fighting unit.

When all was lost, he decided as his forebearers to seek greater opportunity in the then sparsely populated area of Taney and Stone Counties of Missouri. His older brother Thomas R. Biles had already preceeded him to the area. It was here he engaged in the operation of a general store. His generosity and background of southern chivalry made him a highly unsuccessful merchant. Often he allowed himself to be taken in by pleas of his neighbors who said their families were hungry. He was often heard to say, "Your family will not go hungry as long as there is food in this store", or "Take it, suh, it is yours". He later became a farmer on this land which was not meant to bring prosperity to the tiller of the soil. Today this is one of the most beautiful resort areas in all of America. This is near the 'Shepherd of the Hills' area and that of the Mark Twain Forrest Regions of Missouri.

When my father, George Hudson Thomas Biles, was a young man he, like those of the past, decided to seek out a place where he could build and hope for a brighter future. So, with his young bride of only a few months, he joined with others to form a wagon train to California which was to cross the Indian Territory of Oklahoma. In this wagon train besides the Biles were Pruitt families and Cook families and perhaps others.

When they were approaching Ft. Reno their supply of water was diminished to the point of the animals, children, and others showing the effects of thirst. It was here they rested for sometime in a camp established near the Fort. After sufficient rest and replenishing to their supplies they again set out on the long wagon train to California. After about two weeks of travel in the dust and draught they could find no water and only the occasional bones of those who had unsuccessfully traveled that way. They came upon an Indian who warned them to return to the Fort saying that no water would be found anywhere west and they could only become stranded and perish. This, accompanied by the crying of their children, caused them to set in council with all on the train. They recalled that while resting at Fort Reno there was talk of the coming run for land in this Indian Territory where land could be had by homestead.

Here as they counceled they were intrigued by the adventure and drama about to unfold of a new land to be carved out of the Indian Territory of Oklahoma. Partly out of necessity and partly out of their love to build and try their hand at pioneering this new land, they decided to return to Fort Reno and await the run to be staged. This was indeed a unique opportunity to be a part of the only such pioneering venture to be staged in this rapidly growing nation.

While encamped near the Fort awaiting the great day of the opening of Oklahoma Territory, some of the men on horse back ventured out into the new territory to see what it was like. They were careful to avoid the soldiers who were stationed throughout the land to be settled by the great rush, April 22, 1889 at high noon. Each time they would venture out into the new land they would return to their camp and the council fires would burn late that night and the dreams of the opportunity to invest their lives and fortunes in this new land would grow with vivid imaginations. It was in one of these council sessions that some of the men determined their plan for the great day of the run. The women and aged and less adventurous would be divided out into the wagons and horses to attempt the run to predecided points. The younger more adventurous men, of which my father was one, decided to be "Sooners". So it was they went in ahead of the allotted time and concealed themselves in thickets and creeks. When the time arrived they would stake out their claims and defend it, as indeed they must. My father told me of incidents in which the ownership of the staked land was determined by the draw of a gun. Some were left to be buried beneath the soil and others when outdrawn would wheel their horses and make for the best possible land. It was indeed a drama which could never be adequately told.

The young George Biles and his very young wife held land at sun down where El Reno, Okla. now stands. After the excitement and drama of the run was over, came the reality of life on the prairie. Dorah, his wife, being the daughter of a lawyer and teacher of Forsyth, Missouri had not been used to the dirt, dust, and wind of the prairie. Nor was it to George's liking. After two weeks in which the wind blew at them, they decided to go into Oklahoma City and go into business. Here, at third and Hudson they were able to obtain lots alongside that of Dorah's mother and others of the family. Within a very short time they built a Delicatessen here on this corner of a thriving and bustling new city. He also had interests in other businesses within a very short time. Many hair raising stories were told to me by my father of those early, lusty, bustling days of the new 'Queen of the Prairie'.

While enjoying the business and growth of Oklahoma City my father and his new bride could not give up the dream of pioneering the land. While holding on to the security of good business ventures in this thriving new town of the prairie, he kept making other runs, allotments, and drawings for land. He finally got one to his liking Sep. 22, 1891 in Lincoln County, Oklahoma. Here he found the then rich soil, since depleted, and natural resources he had so longed for. On Sept. 22, 1891, a run opened the reservation of the Sac and Fox, Iowa, and Shawnee-Potawatomi tribes to settlement. This opening added two new counties, Pottawatomie and Lincoln and added size to Cleveland, Oklahoma, and Logan Counties.

He took up this homestead in Lincoln County and with other neighbors of equal ability and enthusiasm set out to build from the raw prairie a new farming community. Their first home was a half dugout. A half dugout is constructed half below the ground and half above with logs. This was really not so bad for the first year until the land could be broken and cleared for the first time. The crops must be planted and harvested. The half dugout was easy to heat and cool since it was half below ground. It was located on a gentle sloping area where rain would drain into the stream below. I have visited the site of this first half dugout.

As winter came on and the crops were laid by, a log cabin 'raising' was held. Neighbors would gather for the 'raising'. The logs were cut, hauled, hewed and put in place. So it was with the communities of these hardy pioneers of the great state of Oklahoma.

The families were a close knit group who met on occasion for a community social, ice cream making, or literary.

Father was a deacon in the church, a member of many lodges and fraternal organizations. He served on the school board for many long years in those early days. These hardy pioneers never lost sight of the building influences. Often the teachers were boarded in the home of George and Dorah with their growing family.

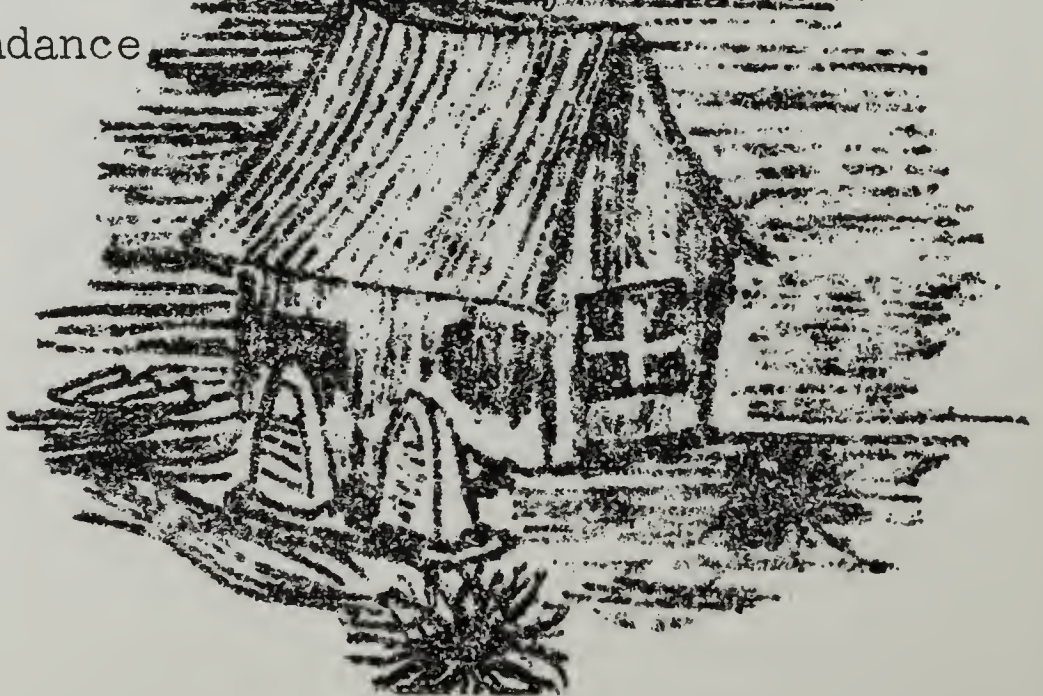

To this couple were to be born thirteen fine children. George and Dorah never forgot to provide for their education, entertainment and cultural growth.

After about two years in the log house on the 'old place', George traded for another farm about $\frac{1}{2}$ mile from the original homestead. Here he erected a double log cabin with a breeze way between where he might keep a suitable buggy for the family. The two cabins joined by a breeze way were each much larger than the original cabin and each also had a rather large sleeping loft.

Soon other buildings began to crop up, a smokehouse, corral, barn, henhouse, log cabin for our colored family whom we all loved and respected. Indeed, Mamie Rose was a very important part of our household. It was not long until a large two story white frame home was erected for the family. It was a beautiful home for the day and time, built back from the road about 100 yards. Two rows of evergreen trees were lined between the road and the house. It was here that much of the social life of the community developed. Hospitality was an accepted fact and all visitors were welcome. Soon a thriving community known as Parkland developed. It had several nice stores, about three good banks and over Porter's grocery was the literary hall.

Located next to the literary hall was the school house. Today all that is left of Parkland is a school house and one small filling station and grocery store combination. One would never guess, unless he would investigate more closely, that here was once a thriving and growing community that the railroads forgot. In the fields near the station can be found the store foundations of many large stone stores, buildings, and banks. I can remember when the stone walls were still standing and the mill was still in evidence. Today all the old families of the once thriving community have moved away to opportunity and ~~where they may be lived in~~ greater abundance.

Vivid in my memory is the cold January of 1921 when I became 5 years old. For it was then my father decided to move to Cushing, Oklahoma, where his opportunities were greater for the Hay-day of Parkland was on the decline since the railroads had chosen to come through Cushing instead. Father had been a nurseryman for a few years prior to his decision to move to Cushing.

The day of the great sale was indeed a memorable one. Several weeks were spent in preparation for this great occasion. The crop of young mules had been brought in from the pastures and put in the many stalls in the mule breaking shed which was about 75 ft. long and would hold about 25 mules at a time. They were placed in their stalls and snubbed in tight with plenty of feed and water but little freedom of movement. My father was a determined man of great character and conviction, who would never stand for anything or anyone to defy him. On the occasion of placing the mules in the stalls one sought to do other than his bidding whereupon he was promptly flattened by my father's fist.

At ~~last~~ the morning of the great sale was at hand. The two large iron wash kettles were filled with hot vegetable soup and several large crates, resembling double egg crates, of soda crackers were in evidence. Each crate probably contained about 25 pounds of crackers. All who came to the sale were to be fed free. Mother and a number of other ladies had been busy for days preparing food which would be served on the huge dining table inside the house. The neighbors could choose to come to the table or eat vegetable soup and crackers while examining the machinery and live stock to go on sale.

At the break of dawn I heard a very familiar sound coming from the yard down by the corral where the poultry was being caught and their feet tied together in long strings. It was my pet chicken. I dashed from the house and demanded it to be loosened and so it was, that it accompanied us on the long journey the next day to Cushing. During the course of the sale I planted myself upon a daybed placed in the yard to be sold. When George Seaba, an early day auctioneer of some notoriety came to this article he found me sitting on it. He said, "Bryan, is this to be sold?" I said, "No Sir, can't you see I'm sitting on it?" He passed it by and it sat there.

The sale was a gala affair for the community for miles around had come to see George Biles and his family have a good sale and wish them well in their new venture.

The next day was a bitter cold January day. It was the day allotted for that long trip to Cushing. With the kids loaded into the model T 1921 Ford car with side curtains up and a large hay rack wagon piled high with furniture and other possessions we were off to Cushing. The side curtains helped some as did the large number of quilts piled on our laps, but it was still bitter cold. For awhile we followed the wagon to see that all was well but soon we went on ahead. Father had purchased the house while it was under construction and awaited its completion for us to move.

One of the first new thrills I remember upon arriving at our new home was when father called the children together and said he wanted to show us something. Whereupon, he took out a match, struck it, and lit the gas lights that were to illuminate the house. This was indeed something, for no one in our rural life had gas lights, only kerosene lamps. My father was a proud man and always wished for his family, the advantages of the best living available.

He was one of the very first in the community to have a model T Ford, a 1914 model, which he promptly drove through a wall while hollering for it to "Whoa".

Many things prompted my father to move to Cushing. Here, his children could go to high school. The older brothers and sisters could only go through grade eight and then off to college as most did. My health was another of fathers motives for moving. I had spent about nine months out of every twelve in bed and "Old Doc Adams" told my folks that unless they moved my likelihood of becoming an adult was not very great. Here, also my father could grow in the nursery business. He prospered and did well. It was not long or many years until he built a new and larger home, next door, for the family. He personally checked each piece of lumber that went into the construction to see that it was number one lumber. All, but the best, was sent back to the lumber yard to be sold to less discerning customers. During the depression years when most families were going hungry for lack of job opportunity, my father prospered and grew.

He was a shrewd man of great intelligence and understanding. His greatest pleasure seemed to come when someone took him for an easy mark. He would toy with them much as a cat would a mouse. He would ask all of the very simplest questions appearing to never quite understand. After many explanations of the very simplest nature, he would finally tire of the persons stupidity and proceed to inform them in such deep and detailed account that they felt most fortunate at being able to escape with their very hide. Although father was kind and generous, he was also a man of great temper and convictions.

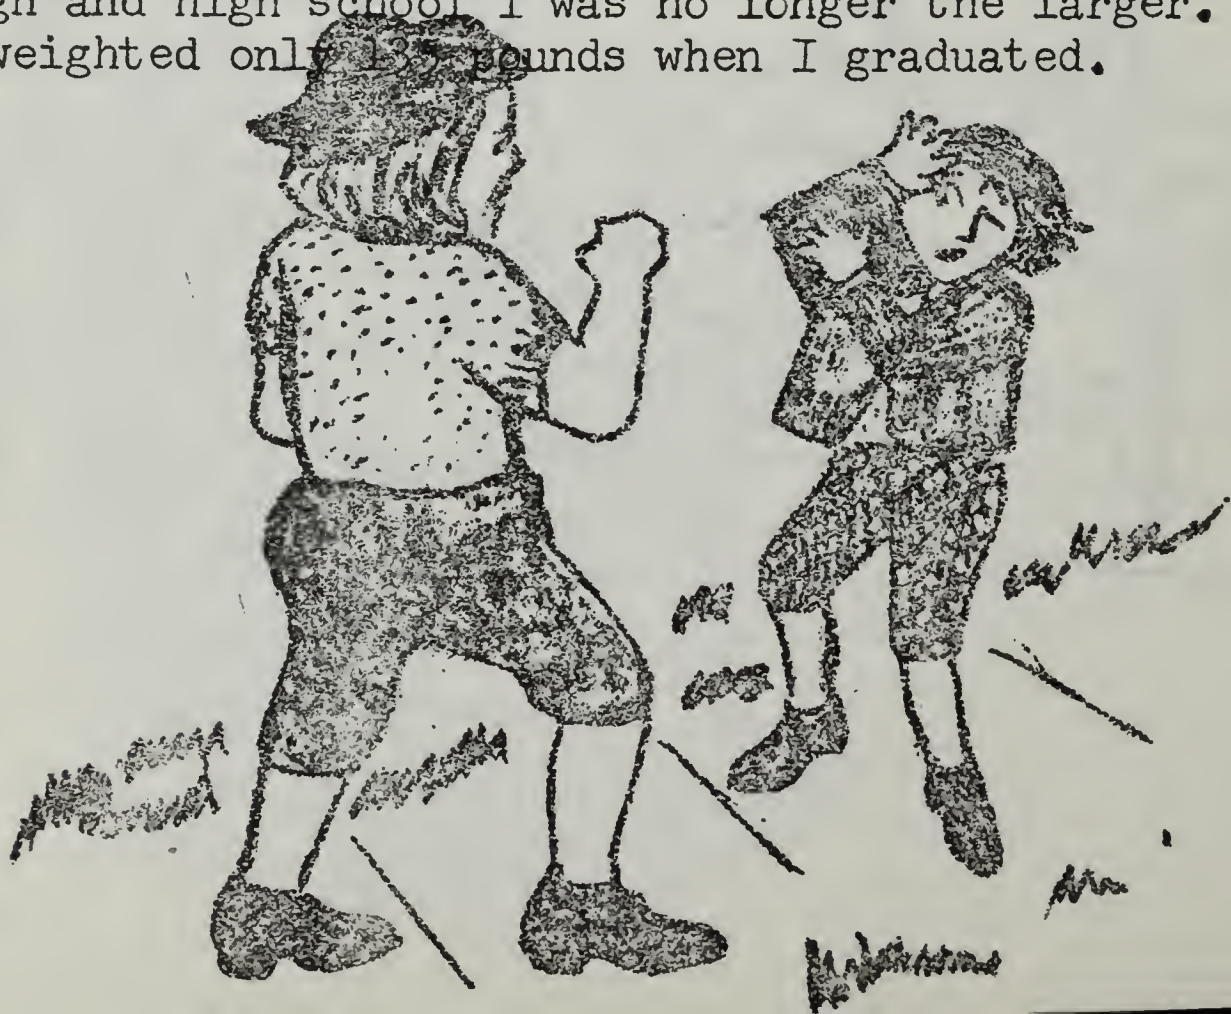

Upon moving to Cushing, father, as before, became interested in growth and development of his new adopted community. They immediately transferred their church membership to the First Christian Church in Cushing. Here he was most active in helping to build the church into one of Cushing's largest. He was a large contributor to the funds for construction of a new church. Today, I understand, the building is much too large for the present congregation.

As I grew up in this wonderful family, I was always encouraged by a calm and wonderfully kind mother. She could often be found singing at her tasks such songs as "Red Wing", 'Ring Those Golden Bells', and 'Break the News To Mother'. These songs were often whistled for variety. She loved to piece quilts. She was always kind and considerate of the women who she hired to help with the house work. She had her household so well planned that you could always predict what would be going on at a given day and time. She baked fresh pastry every day. I never remember a time I could not bring a group of hungry kids home and feed them with a selection of pie, cake, hot bread, cinnamon rolls, etc.,.

Because of health conditions I did not start to school until I was 7 years old. At mid-term of my second year I was promoted up a grade. Upon starting to school I began to grow very rapidly and soon was the largest and strongest boy of my age in school. I soon loved to fight as seemed to be one of the pastimes of the day. However, my first fight lesson was a little unique. About a block away from my home I was accosted by a boy my age but larger than I. He asked if I wanted to fight. I asked what he meant. I hardly had time to say it before he decided here was an easy mark. He was right, for he had me on my back pounding me in good fashion. While running home wailing to the top of my voice, my older brother grabbed me and shellacked my britches good and promised to repeat it if I did not return to the corner and take care of the problem at hand, which out of fear, I promptly did. It seemed standard procedure for this boy and I to meet and fight everyday thereafter for several years. I soon learned that if I would stay with him for awhile he would soon tire and then be at my mercy. I was not really very mercifully inclined. Enjoying my grade years, larger and stronger, was to come to a slower pace as in Jr. high and high school I was no longer the larger. I weighted only 135 pounds when I graduated.

Due to my size and appearance I was able to join the National Guards when barely thirteen years old. I had almost served two enlistments before I became old enough to join. I never will forget my mother when she discovered I was in the National Guards. She found my uniform under my bed mattress.

I was, however, given a medical discharge from the National Guards when I could no longer serve due to having my spine severely injured in an automobile accident. I was taking a special course in English Literature commuting from Cushing to Stillwater, Oklahoma each day when on Friday 13, I was the victim of a nasty car accident. I received three cracked and one crushed vertebra for which I spent several months in the hospital under traction and followed by five years in a steel brace.

In as much as I was unable to participate in athletics, I was asked to teach a class of gymnastica and start the wrestling team out during my senior year. This has served me well for I have coached many years of gymnastica as well as football, basketball, baseball and other sports.

Because of my background in the National Guards where I served one summer encampment in charge of a hospital tent, I was able to obtain a job at the University of Oklahoma in the student hospital dispensary. Here, I met with unusual opportunity due to Dr. W. H. Atkins, a young doctor with unusual talent for teaching. I will always be grateful to this very wonderful man for his patience and many, many hours behind closed doors teaching me.

I have never known a Biles I was ashamed of nor one who was not good honest folks. Although I believe myself to be the best authority on the family alive today, I have no record of any crime or other conduct that would bring shame or dishonor to the name. True, we have not all been angels; but neither have we been undesirables. We are, as a whole, individualists with strong and perhaps a little domineering personalities. We are slow to rile but with extreme tempers once we are provoked. We dare to stand alone when necessary, not fearing ridicule or popular disapproval when a matter of principle is at stake. We prefer, I would say, a peaceful co-existence with others of the human race.

I do not wish to overlook those who would jest about genealogy and the pleasures to be derived from knowing of ones ancestors. I, therefore, wish to give the following which is to be found in the Montgomery County, North Carolina records.

State of North Carolina,
Montgomery County,

To whom these presents may come greetings:

Be it remembered, that on the 16th day of April, in the year of our Lord, nineteen hundred and thirty-nine, in the one hundred and sixty-fourth year of the independence of the United States of America, during the reign of Adolf Hitler, and F. D. R. in the city of Troy, there was born to Maud, a female mule colt, named Kate. Her father is supposed to be some Jackass, name unknown and her owner is another, named Dr. W. T. Harris.

Without pride of ancestry, she like the priest, the pope and the eunuch, has little hope of progeny or posterity, however, may the fact of her birth and the date there-of never be questioned or doubted, and now therefore, I, M. A. Nicholson, a notary public in and for the aforementioned County and State, commissioned by his Excellency Hon. Clyde R. Hoey, Governor of the State of North Carolina, do hereby make this certification of the event and date as set forth above, and do herewith and hereon set my hand and official seal, this April, 23rd, A. D., 1939.

M. A. Nicholson (N. P. Seal)

Notary Public, Montgomery Cty, N. C.

My commission expires Nov. 18, 1940

North Carolina,
Montgomery County,

The execution of the foregoing instrument was this day acknowledged before me by M. A. Nicholson, the witness for the purpose therein expressed. Let the instrument with the certificate be registered. This 1st July, 1942

Filed for registration at 9 o'clock A. M. July 1, 1942, and recorded and verified July, 1, 1942. Recorded in Book A-11, page 443.

Register of Deeds

I have in my possession a true photostatic copy of the foregoing instrument. In as much as I spent 25 cents on the photostat, I thought it should be included.

I spent August 1967 in the State of North Carolina doing research for this book. Doing this research in N. C. I drove over 5000 miles covering most of the central region of North Carolina from its Northern border to the Southern border. I have in my possession about 200 photostats but there is much yet to be done.

I searched the graveyards, courthouses and libraries. In fact, I was thrown out of a courthouse at 5:10 each day while I was there.

In addition to the photostats, I also possess many photographs of old head stones, homes, etc.

I spent one evening on a front porch with a man of 85 who possessed a wonderful memory and owned one of the finest sense-of-humor known to man.
